Awards night in Hollow Water

Something special is happening in Wanipigow

by Charles Norman

WANIPIGOW - Friday evening, October 4, the community of Wanipigow held a banquet and dance to honour 23 of their young people who walked the 300 km from Wanipigow to Winnipeg August 7-10 to raise money for cancer research. It took them three and a half days, they raised $2200, and arrived in Winnipeg with feet covered in blisters, but that is only part of the story.

There are about 300 young people between the ages of thirteen and twenty in the community. Half of them belong to an organisation called "Youth United". Two spokespersons for the group, Marcia Cowley, a grade twelve student, and Kern Bushie, a grade ten student said the group was started by band councillor Wayne Moneyas because he wanted to "make a difference for the next generation." Kern said the community has problems with drugs, alcohol, violence, and break-and enters. "He is making a difference." He said. "He has gotten a lot of kids cut down, if not stopped drugs and alcohol."

"Youth United means a lot to us around here." Kern said. "We want to start groups in other areas. Wayne (Moneyas) has big plans, and we believe in him."

Marcia plans to train with the RCMP and return to Wanipigow as a native tribal police officer working with young people. Kern plans to become an engineer, specializing in Robotics.

Many of the communities problems arise from boredom and lack of activities for young people. The group will be building a recreation centre, with games and a cafeteria, where the kids can meet and socialize.

They also get involved in national and international conferences, hosted by their group, dealing with problems faced by young aboriginal people. The walk to Winnipeg ended at the South East College (partly owned by Wanipigow) for a week-long conference with young people from all across Canada. Next year's conference is already in the planning stages and will bring together youngsters from all over North and South America. There will be 30 workshops See 'Blisters' page 2

FAMILY FEUD SENDS MAN TO HOSPITAL

by Don Norman

SAGKEENG - Violence at a party on the South Shore of Fort Alexander sent one man to hospital, and police scurrying to find witnesses in a case where no one wants to talk.

There were apparently 15 to 20 men, some armed with crow bars and baseball bats, who forced their way into the party between 2:00 and 2:30 AM on Sunday October 6, 1996. Having already cut phone lines to stop anyone from calling for help, they singled one man out and proceeded to beat him into unconsciousness.

Investigating officer Constable Roger Lavallee said the incident was not gang related, but rather the latest outbreak of violence in a family feud which has been on-going for the last year and a half at least.

"A score was settled between families," Lavallee said. "It was one family's turn to retaliate." Police will not release names of the people involved, but said that not all of the attackers were members of the feuding family.

Police are running into roadblocks with respect to finding witnesses willing to give them information. "Some witnesses were members of the family of attackers, which is complicating the investigation," Lavallee said. Another factor is the fear of retaliation for going to police.

RCMP do not know the exact reason for the retaliation, but say that it was most certainly focused on something the victim of the beating must have done. The investigation is continuing.

Blisters don't deter spirit dealing with the conference theme of racism.

On the walk to Winnipeg the group spent the first night by the Pine Falls Generating Station, the second at Patricia Beach, and the third in Birds Hill Park. They were accompanied by a van and emergency vehicle, complete with nurse Gloria Bushie. She said everyone had blisters. By the time they arrived in Winnipeg some had feet completely covered in blisters. They were treated with a spray-on Novocaine, banded, and carried on walking. In spite of this the youngsters had enough energy and enthusiasm to be giving each other piggy-backs and turning cart-wheels on the last stage of the journey from Birds Hill to Winnipeg.

There was a sad note to the event, however. Marcia Cowley said the walk was dedicated to Jason Darcy Young, who was to have been on the walk with them, but died in a house fire just prior to the walk. Marcia and some others interrupted the walk to return to Wanipigow for the funeral.

During last Friday's presentations words of praise were heaped on the young people. Master of Ceremonies Garf Bushie, who joined them on the third day said, "What I saw was enough to make me very proud - it brought tears to my eyes."

Pat Pruden, who received a cheque from Kern Bushie and Marcia Cowley said, "It's really wonderful that children and teenagers can do something so positive. Kids are good - always good, but sometimes we adults don't give them a chance."

Wanipigow High School Principal Peter Osadchuk said youngsters in Youth United are taking an active part in the student council. "I'm proud to be associated with kids who could walk to Winnipeg - and proud to be their principal."

Nurse Gloria Bushie said.

Marcia Cowley and Kern Bushie present a check to Pat Pruden of the Manitoba Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation.

"I'd like to tell those kids that walked that I felt very proud of them - and I still do."

Larry Starr, with the health unit of the Southeast Development Council, who received part of the $2200 raised from the walk said, "You have youth here [of whom] you should be, and probably are, very proud."

One of the walkers, Cheryl Bushie, when she received her award said "Wayne Moneyas - thank you for making us believe in us."

At the end of the evening Youth United founder Wayne Moneyas received a standing ovation.

A number of new members have joined the committee this fall to assume positions vacated by retirees. Here is the full slate of officers:

President - Clara Thurmeier, Secretary/Treasurer - Gloria Zirk, Syllabus and Programs - Dorinda Watson, Leanne Bates & Clara Thurmeier, Hospitality - Audrey Lehman, Publicity - Carol Clegg, Adjudicators and Secretaries - Mrs. Tease, Halls and Properties - Janice Halliday, Ushers - Carol Smith, MC's - June Hunie, Concert - Elaine Sinclair, Awards -

The business agenda was brief, but some time was spent familiarizing new members with the workings of the committee. A motion was passed to make a donation to Centennial School for paper used last year. It was agreed that from now on trophies and medals should be engraved with the year of the festival.

Gloria Zirk suggested that the committee investigate the possibility of holding a workshop for church choirs. Carol Clegg offered to contact the Manitoba Choral Association for assistance. Members volunteered to contact church and community choirs in the area served by the Agassiz Festival. If there is sufficient interest,

WAASAABIYAA SHINING WATER HERITAGE BUFFET GRAND AFFAIR

High Steppers, a square dance troupe from Hollow Water First Nation.

The Waasaabiyaa Shining Waters Heritage Region held on Friday evening, October 4th, 1996, was a fabulous success.

fully as well as plays the Celtic harp.

But it was a group of youthful dancers from Hollow Water First Nation, the High Steppers, who really stole the show. These young people did two sessions of square dancing that just had fingers tapping and toes hopping.

In their western style dress of blue with white fringe, they were an awesome sight. The group is working under the care of Murray Marchment, from whom it is apparent they receive lots of encouragement. These terrific dancers were enjoying themselves to the max...every single one sported an ear to ear smile.

Following the excellent food, diners were treated to some rare entertainment in the form of lovely harp music from Esme Boone. She is a masterful musician who sings beautihis brother Robert, (we know him as "Chevy") did a couple of songs on guitar and fiddle. They were great as they gave us some real old time music. The kind we all remember and love.

The Honorable Darren Praznik, M L A for Lac du Bonnet, gave thanks to all who helped to make the dinner so successful. He gave thanks to the regions residents who prepared such wonderful food. He said, "In a world where wars and fighting are so commonplace, it's so good to be sharing the land, having great friends and neighbors."

Organizer, Margaret Nichol and her assistants are truly deserving of many thanks for all their hard work and diligence in the preparation of such a great community event. It was an honor to be there, thanks from everyone of us within the region who so enjoyed the fruits of their labors.

Model Forest Open House

One of the caribou used in the migration study.

Around 700 students and adults took advantage of the annual Model Forest Open House at the Great Falls Community Centre on Friday, October 4. Students from as far away as Beausejour, Pinawa and Wanipigow took advantage of the open house to meet and talk with scientists and consultants engaged in Model Forest projects relating to sustainable development, and the protection of the local forest ecosystem.

The 40 plus displays dealt with forest issues (eg. impact of forest fires, alternative harvesting equipment, resource road management, regeneration of difficult sites).

Consultants are developing a plan for the abandonment of many seldom used roads within the region, where those are thought to have a negative impact on wildlife. The plan will include consultation with the public before the end of the year.

Among the many projects on wildlife management, one dealt with determining the annual migration of woodland caribou using satellite technology. The range of woodland caribou, once extending in to the Northern United States, has been steadily retreating Northward. The herd in the Model Forest region, about 40 animals, is now the most Southerly herd.

Researchers have been attempting to determine the impact of harvesting, forest fires, etc. on the herd. To do this they needed to follow them through the year. Did they, for example, feed in new growth after fires or harvesting?

Scientists have trapped two caribou, fitted them with radio collars, and released them back to the herd.

The radio collar receives information for two or three satellites and automatically records the location of the animal within a few metres. Periodically scientists fly over the area, find the land, and activate the radio which then transmits the stored data. This is then loaded into a computer and printed as a map showing the migration of the herd. It was found that the caribou do feed in new growth areas.

Details of three trails within the region were available, the Nesda Pine Creek Trail North of the Pine Falls Generating Station, the North Star trail in the Belair forest reserve between Stead & Grand Beach, and the Manitogog Waterway Trail.

Trapper Stuard Janssen had a display of furs, including arctic fox, silver fox, and red fox. He said the red fox may have been introduced from England but is now common throughout North American and also Alaska. He said the silver fox was uncommon until 1806, it is a "colour morph" which now predominates in some areas.

SENIORS INFO CORNER

Still on the subject of Wills Changing or Revoking a Will...

You should review your will every few years to make sure it is current. It is wise to review your will whenever you move, change marital status, acquire or lose a substantial amount of property, want to add or remove a beneficiary, or when new laws are passed.

You may change a will as often as you wish. Changes can be made by an addition to the will, called a codicil, or by making an entirely new will. In order to be valid, all changes to a will must comply with the usual legal requirements for a valid will as discussed previously. A will can be revoked or canceled in the following ways:

Marriage

Generally, when someone marries all previous wills are automatically revoked. This occurs even if the maker intends the will to remain the same. The one exception is if the will was made in contemplation of a specific marriage. The will not only would have to state that it was made in contemplation of marriage but must also name the person whom the maker was marrying.

Destruction...

If you destroy your will with the intention of revoking it, it is revoked and therefore invalid. Even if the will is not completely destroyed and is still readable, the court will consider it revoked if your intention was to revoke it. However, it is possible for a will to be destroyed and still be valid. If the will was destroyed accidentally or if someone else destroyed it without your consent, the will would still be valid.

If someone else destroyed the will, it could be considered revoked if the destruction was at your request or direction.

Document of Revocation...

A will should contain a clause stating that all prior wills are revoked/canceled. This is usually the first clause of any will, but it need not be part of an entirely new will.

Subsequent Will...

A subsequent will usually should contain a revocation clause to invalidate all previous wills. If the new will does not contain this clause, however, previous wills are not necessarily invalid. A will executed before the new will would be invalid only to the extent that it is inconsistent with the new one.

Alterations to an Existing will....

An alteration to an existing will is invalid unless the change was properly executed. Like a will, a properly executed alteration normally needs to be signed by the maker and two witnesses, as discussed previously.

The court will presume that any alteration occurred after the will was first executed. If the alteration is ineffectual, the original clause will remain valid. One exception to this rule is if the clause that was altered is now unreadable. In this case, the original clause and the attempted alteration are revoked and therefore invalid.

BEACHES BUZZES

Winter...again

How about all the wonder of Mother Nature's Palette, the colors of our glorious deciduous trees, aren't they simply wonderful? Makes one want to go and photograph the entire region in all it's glory.

Trouble is this is all leading up to winter, a time of year that just isn't too popular. Winter is also a wonderful time of year once it gets here and the snow has fallen to stay. Most of us hate that in between period when it isn't wet or dry, warm or cold.

Had to take in all the flowers this week, they looked so lovely it was a hateful chore, but what looks sadder than something that's turned ugly and black, that was once red, pink or whatever color your garden is.

All our precious songbirds have flown south, and the ducks and geese have all but left the north country.

I haven't seen too many V formations lately....sad, but a fact of life.

Flu Shots....

Speaking of winter, time to get your flu shot now, before the serious cold sets in, and we have snow up to our armpits again. There doesn't that just make you feel terrific?

Please try to make it to the clinics indicated in the Healthwatch column. Just to repeat, Pine Falls is having a flu clinic at the Health Unit on Friday, October 11th from 9:00 A M till 11:20 noon, this will be repeated on Thursday, October 17th, and at the same time, 9:00 A M till 12:00 Noon.

There are lots of activities taking place this week in lots of facilities...most of them were listed in last week's edition, and will be listed again next week...sayonara

Dear Doris, Ken, Kristen, Neil, Courtney, Karen, Brent, Jullie, and Jennifer.

We want to wish you a very Happy Thanksgiving and we wanted you to know that we're thinking of you, and miss you! We also wanted to wish a Happy and Safe Holiday season to some very special friends: Eileen & Mel, The Rosentretors, Pachkowsky's and the Pasaks!

And to the many friends who sent their wishes, attended the services, and the other expressions of shared grief regarding the passing of Gerda Ranacher last Spring... please know that we thank you!

rice will be built into the extension. There will be new carpets throughout. There will be a moveable partition to separate the two, one is for legion meetings. Bill McGuire said he hopes the project will be ready for occupancy by November 11, but does not expect the interior to be completely finished until later.

The Legion recently sold the Legion Hall on Oak St. to the Agassiz School Division.

Dear Customer:

As a Small Business in the 90's and with the availability of Credit Cards, and new banking methods, for example Interac cards and touch tone phone banking, we find it impossible to carry a debt load for 30-60-120 days or more, in some cases. We can no longer operate our business on Credit!! Therefore starting October 1st, 1996 we are going strictly cash, credit card, interac. All outstanding accounts will have 30 days to be closed off. Hope you understand our situation.

COMMUNITY HEALTH WATCH

TIME FOR FLU SHOTS

What is the "Flu"?

Flu is the short form for influenza. It is a highly contagious respiratory disease caused by a virus. You may experience symptoms much like having a common cold, but flu symptoms are far more serious. They include fever, head/body aches and pains, weakness, sneezing, sore throat, cough and sniffles. People with the flu are often bedridden for up to, or more than a week.

The real dangers of the flu are the complications that can arise from it. True influenza leaves you weak and at risk of other infections (e.g. pneumonia) or heart/kidney failure, nervous system disorders.

Who Can Get the Flu?

Anyone can get influenza, but for some people it can become a serious, or even life threatening illness. The flu can interfere with your leisure time. Plans for sports, leisure and vacation activities can be disrupted due to a bout with the flu.

Influenza causes absenteeism, which can become costly to you and to your employer.

Flu is easily spread: if you have family members living with you, and they are high risk, you protect them by protecting yourself with a flu shot.

High Risk Groups

It is important for people who are in a high risk group to get their flu shot, in order to reduce the impact of the flu. You are part of a high risk group if you:

- a) Are an adult or child with chronic heart, lung, or kidney disorders or cystic fibrosis.
- b) Have asthma, diabetes, severe chronic anemia, cancer or an other long term illness or have received an organ transplant.

c) Are age 65 and over or all those who live in a long term care facility.
d) Children and adolescents (6 months to 18 years) with conditions treated for long periods with acetylsalicylic acid.

Can I Protect Myself From Influenza?

Yes! The easiest way to protect yourself and those around you from getting the flu is to get your flu vaccination each fall.

Does the Influenza Vaccine Work?

Yes! It works very well. Yearly vaccination prevents the flu in most people, and can even save lives. In others vaccination usually reduces the severity of the illness.

By the way, you cannot get the flu from a flu shot.

Who Should Not Get a Flu Shot?

If you have a serious infection, you should not get a flu shot.

If you have an allergy to eggs or egg products, you should not get a flu shot.

When Do I Get A Flu Shot?

September is Flu Awareness Month - the time to start thinking about getting your flu shot. The flu vaccine be-

Cold or Flu? How Can I Tell?

Symptoms	Cold	Flu
Fever	Rare	Characteristic High (38 - 40 degrees C) Sudden onset; lasts 3 - 4 days
Headache	Rare	Prominent
Gen. aches, pains	Slight	Usually, often quite severe
Fatigue & weakness	Quite mild	Extreme; can last up to a month
Bedridden	Never	Early
Runny, stuffy nose	Common	Sometimes
Sneezing	Usual	Sometimes
Sore throat	Common	Sometimes
Cough/chest discomfort	Mild to moderate.	Common, can become severe hacking cough
Complications	Earache, sinus congestion	Bronchitis, pneumonia can be life threatening comes available as early as mid September and clinics begin to distribute flu shots in early October. Be aware of Flu Clinics in your areas. Flu season generally starts in November, and may carry through until April. Although it is best to get your flu shot before the flu season starts, it is never too late.

The vaccine is available throughout the flu season for those who did not have the opportunity to get a shot in the fall.

Remember, any protection is better than no protection at all.....

Universal Sound and Design open for business

Rod Augstin, an industrial arts / technology education teacher at the Powerview High School has opened a store on Art Street, behind the Pineview Shell convenience store.

Around 50 people showed up on opening day, October 5, to check out opening day prices on a range of home theatre packages, car audio systems and commercial audio and visual equipment.

Augstin has been designing and installing stereo systems since he was fifteen years old. Since coming to Powerview he has designed and installed the Powerview Arena sound system, and built the speakers for the system. Augstin will also be repairing TVs VCRs and microwaves. Future plans include setting up an MTS mobility Centre for cellular telephones.

"I've made my hobby into a business." He said. "I'm not here to make a fortune, just to give the best deal possible so people don't have to drive into the city."

Unseasonable weather smiled upon The Grand Opening of Powerview Fabrics.

Powerview Fabrics holds grand opening

by Lorraine Neal

On a clear, warm Saturday morning, the doors of the new and beautiful Powerview Fabrics were officially opened by Mayor Henry Ostrowski, in a ribbon cutting ceremony. The Grand Opening was broadcast live over Radio Station QX 104 on the FM Band, with popular radio personality Joel Lamoreux.

Co owned by Rita Lamoreux and Michelle Bruneau, a very successful mother and daughter team, the business was formerly operated from the Lamoreux home. It became apparent that because of its success, larger quarters would be required.

The opening was very well attended by region residents, and several great deals on merchandise, along with door prizes were offered. Best of luck to this much needed business in our community.

Thanksgiving

Time to Give Thanks

This coming weekend is Thanksgiving and people across Provencher and indeed, across Canada, will gather around the family table and give thanks for the tremendous bounty bestowed upon them.

Every year at this time Canadians like to take a look around and take stock at what we all have to be thankful for.

This has had its ups and downs but in retrospect, we have much to be thankful for.

Farmers across Provencher are thankful for a bountiful harvest. Even though they got off to a rather slow start due to spring flooding, the harvest is looking good and commodity prices are favourable.

If Mother Nature could see fit to provide us with a little more warm weather, our local farmers could complete their fall field work, ending a productive crop year.

Last year, I mentioned in this column that the people of St. Pierre Jolys and area were thankful a new hospital was being built. Today we can say congratulations to that community. On September 28 they held grand opening ceremonies for the new facility.

This project has had the spirit of the community behind it from day one and residents should be proud of what they have achieved. The new hospital is a tribute to their perseverance and resolve in obtaining and securing a new, state-of-the-art facility to serve the area.

This just one of the many, many projects nearing or at completion around Provencher which we can all be thankful for. They truly add to our sense of community and to our lives on a daily basis.

First and foremost, we can all be thankful that we live in the greatest country in the world.

Our economy is moving ahead and Canadians enjoy one of the highest standards of living in the industrialized world. We are truly fortunate that our country is a peace loving one and is not taking part in any major world conflict.

Above all, and I have said this before, we must be thankful for the love and health within our own families. It is from these healthy and strong family units that come our community builders and leaders of tomorrow.

I encourage all citizens in Provencher to take the time to consider what it is that they have to be thankful for and then take the time to share these feelings with loved ones this Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving

We in this community have a lot to be thankful for. Only two or three years ago there appeared to be a very real threat that the mill could be closed, and the entire community changed beyond recognition. That did not happen. It took a major effort and major sacrifices on the part of everyone of the employees, management and union, to secure ownership of the mill, but at the time no one could have foreseen how successful the new company would be.

During negotiations for the buy-out, it appeared that it would be a long, hard struggle, with a huge debt, and low newsprint prices, making needed improvements in the mill difficult, if not impossible.

Record high newsprint prices in 1995 changed all that. The Pine Falls Paper Company was able to build a new waste water treatment plant, a new deink plant, and make a start at mill improvements, together costing around 70 million dollars, - and pay cash.

Prices have not stayed at that level, but nevertheless the future for the mill and the whole community is looking pretty good. In addition to a new pulp mill, the company is beginning to look seriously at a new paper machine, and trebling production to around 1500 tonnes per day.

It will not be smooth sailing all the way. There will be, as always, a boom and bust cycle in the market for newsprint, but the company seems to be in a sound position to be able to weather any future downturns.

It would, perhaps, be a good idea to remember, in this thanksgiving season, that we have a lot to be thankful for in Pine Falls.

the committee will proceed with the planning for a one day workshop to be held in late February or early March.

The highlight of the meeting was a presentation to Irene and Ed Trethart. The President aptly expressed the group's gratitude for their many years of dedicated service to the Festival. It should be noted that several people are now doing the jobs which Irene did alone. Ed has retired from the Treasurer's post. Irene thanked the committee for the very appropriate wall hanging and assured them that she would still be around to help when she was needed.

Retiring Publicity Chairperson, Martha Tuxworth also deserves special mention for 5 years of work on the Festival Committee. In addition to her prescribed duties, she kept a scrapbook recording the history of the festival during her tenure. It is the hard work and enthusiasm of such volunteers which keep the festival tradition strong in Manitoba.

The next Festival Committee meeting will be in the first week of November at Centennial School.

Leon Berthelette, way back when.

Antoine and Rose gave birth to Leon Berthelette on April 10, 1926 in Transcona, MB. When Leon was 7 years old, his family moved to Broadlands where Jake Lemire now lives. The Berthelette children had to walk 2 and 1/2 miles to attend the Broadlands School. Four years later, the Berthelette's moved to St. Georges where Leon continued his education at Allard School. A few years later, the Berthelette clan moved once again, this time to Manitou Point in Pine Falls.

Leon worked at the mill from his early teens until he was eighteen, when he decided to join the Royal Canadian Navy. He trained in Regina, then was assigned to a destroyer ship, The St. Laurent, in Halifax. Their ship's duties included escorting convoys and liners from submarine attacks. They would sail into the Atlantic to meet ships half way that were coming back from Europe.

Leon clearly recalls VE Day in Halifax that marked the end of the war: "There was an uncontrollable party going on in Halifax. Windows were smashed, stores were being looted, and the Liquor Commission had been broken into, so everyone was drinking. Pure mayhem, I've never seen anything like it since. Ten thousand soldiers with bayonets were sent out onto the street in an attempt to clear and control crowds." Leon was discharged on November 27, 1945 and came back home for a brief time to Pine Falls.

Canada Television and Cable Production Fund: Financing more and better Canadian programming

David W. Iftody, M.P.

A quick flip through our television channels these days tells us a very important story. On any given night we see New York, Los Angeles, Detroit, Miami and Chicago. With cable technology bringing an ever wider range of viewing choices, Canadian programs fight a daily battle for visibility.

Good quality Canadian television is very popular, especially in Quebec and in some rural areas of the country, where the highest rated programs are Canadian. However, we need to make more top quality Canadian programming available to Canadians.

To ensure the production and distribution of even more good Canadian programs, Heritage Minister Sheila Copps has announced the creation of the new Canada Television and Cable Production Fund.

The fund totals $200 million, of which $100 million was set aside in the 1996 budget, $50 million comes from Telefilm Canada's Broadcast fund and another $50 million comes from the private sector Cable Industry Production Fund. Further agreements with private sector partners should enlarge this pool of money for investment in Canadian programming by about $450 million for a total of $650 million each year.

The fund has been created with several goals in mind:

- * to increase the quantity and quality of Canadian television programming
- * to help create jobs across the country;
- * to increase the capacity of the Canadian television production and distribution industry;

* to ensure that distinctively Canadian programming is more visible among the increasingly diverse television choices available and;

* to open up new opportunities to export Canadian programming.

The fund makes effective use of dollars by using $150 million in government investment to bring in private sector investment of as much as $500 million more. The fund will create about 10,000 high quality Canadian jobs with a future, in an industry which now employs 50,000 Canadians.

Program categories eligible for funding include drama, variety, children's shows, documentaries, and performing arts. The production must also be truly Canadian and be shown in prime time within two years. Up to 50 per cent of the fund may be used for independent productions meant to be shown on the CBC's but the CBC will not be able to use the funds for in-house productions, nor to offset cuts it must make to its budget.

The fund will be administered by an independent, non profit corporation, managed by a board of directors, with representatives from the federal government and from private sector television production and distribution.

With Canadians watching an average of 28 hours a week, television is a powerful vehicle for Canada's cultural identity. Seeing ourselves, our landscape, our stories on the small screen helps to confirm who we are. With the introduction of this fund, the government is ensuring a continuing strong Canadian television presence.
