Pine Falls home to the bears

It's not Yogi and Boo Boo looking for picnic baskets, it is the real thing and there are approximately 14 or so bears in the immediate area feeding.

For the past few weeks Pine Falls has been a feeding ground for numerous bears in the area. They usually are in the vicinity around this time of year to eat as much as possible for the long winter ahead. There have been plenty of reports of bears and they are keeping conservation and RCMP officers busy.

Conservation Officer Chris Atkins said that it had not been a very good year for berries and the bears are fattening up for the winter on acorns. He said bears are wild creatures and people should give them a wide berth. "Treat them with respect, and give them their space." He said.

Food sources should be removed. Garbage should not be accessible, bird feeder and humming bird feeders should be removed, and fruit should be removed from fruit trees.

"If a bear acts aggressively or is a nuisance, move away and contact us." He said. "It is not necessary to inform the department every time a bear is sighted."

Atkins said they have trapped some bears and relocated them, but they have only a limited number of traps, and it is helpful if food sources are removed from areas where bears can interact with people.

Sharon Christensen of Mud Falls was forced to call the Eight bears were spotted last night in the Pine Falls area. This one was up in a tree and the other eating at the Village Green

RCMP and Conservation officers this past Friday when a bear tried to gain entry to their home. They believed the bear might of been after the dog as Sharon and her daughter Chey were outside at the time. The bear caught the dog, but the dog manage to get away and run for cover. However, they were very surprised at how quickly the bear moved giving them little time to get into the house. The bear was then trying to gain entry through the windows and patio doors. They were very thankful that the RCMP and Conservation officers responded so quickly to her 911 call for help. She and her family wish to thank both departments.

Pine Falls Golf Course is taking precautions for their patrons as a mother and her three cubs are in the area. "The mother and her cubs are just feeding on the acorns and have not posed a problem. We just advise players to keep a safe distance and we have staff on alert with blow horns to scare them away." Said staff members.

Fidello first in EMCA's season

By Evelyn Seida

The Eastern Manitoba Concert Association (EMCA) begins its 2006-07 season in high gear. On Friday, September 22, Fidello will take the stage of the Pinawa Community Centre to lead off EMCA's seven concert series.

To start your weekend off on the right toe-tapping foot, Fidello will hit you with an explosion of sound and energy. You will be itching to get up and party before the evening is over.

This seven-member group combines fiddles, guitar, piano, bass, drums, vocals and dancing to explore a variety of styles including music of the roots, world beat, jazz and Celtic rock genres.

Each musician brings experience and excitement to the group that will make you sit up and take notice.

Allison Granger, leader of the group, began teaching with the Faculty of Music at Brandon University at the astounding age of 13. She has toured through three continents, was part of a live BBC broadcast to over 10 million people and entertained troops in Afghanistan, Bosnia and Alert at the North Pole. She has also performed for Prince Charles, Prince Albert of Monaco and the Saudi Royal Family.

Granger was nominated for a Gemini Award for Canada's 2002 Canada Day performance on Parliament Hill as part of the group "Barrage". She was also nominated for "Fiddler of the Year" at both the 2004 and 2005 Canadian Country Music Awards.

She has performed with many of the best including Alanis Morissette, Bare Naked Ladies, Great Big Sea, Blue Rodeo, Tammy Wynette, Martina McBride and Ashley MacIsaac.

Mazodolin and fiddle player plus executive producer of Fidello, Errol Fischer's professional career began with the Calgary Fiddlers. He then went on to join the world renowned group, "Barrage" working his way up to front man. He has recorded numerous recordings and videos.

Kevin Torgelson is on bass guitar. His professional career started at the age of 20 as a jingle writer. A versatile musician his work jumps from socas to sambas, rock to reggae, jazz to jingles and hoe-downs to Horas. He has accompanied such greats as Ellen McIlwaine, Canadian Idol Singer Keith MacPherson and McMaster and James.

Marc Arnaud will be on keys. He is considered the "go to" keyboardist in Winnipeg. He covers the music spectrum from country rock to R&B jazz and has shared the stage with such notables as Colin James and Beverly Mahood.

Melanie Ostash, dancer and fiddler/violinist with the group, was a junior showcase representing Manitoba at the Canadian Grandmasters Fiddle Championship in Ottawa in 2000 and then again in 2003, '04 and '05. She studied music at the Brandon University and recently has produced two solo albums, the latest being "My Own Way".

Drummer/Percussionist/Singer, Christian Dugas, discovered drumming as a two-year-old. When he was four, his composer-producer dad, Norman Dugas, bought him an adult-size set of drums and they played Stevie Wonder's "Superstition" as a first piece. His first professional gig was at age 10. He has recorded with Cara Luft, performed on drums and sang with Alana Levandowski at Canada House in London, England and toured with Madrigala through France and Switzerland — all in 2006.

The last member of the group is guitarist Clint Pelletier. Native of Edmonton, Pelletier began his professional career for Rounder Records fiddle and step dance sensation April Verch and then moved on to perform with "Barrage". He is a highly sought after guitarist in a variety of styles from jazz, rock, flamenco to country/Bluegrass.

Individually these artists are great. Together they are dynamite.

This EMCA season opener must not be missed, nor should any of the other six performances this year. All performances are held Fridays at 8 p.m. (with the exception of the Scotiabank Harvest Tour with the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra at 7:30) at the Pinawa Community Centre, 20 Vanier Drive in Pinawa. Tickets are now available. For more information visit EMCA's website at www.granite.mb.ca/emca/home.html or contact Cathy at 753-2767.

Clarks Corner changes hands

by Charles Norman

Laurent and Darlene Raymond have purchased Clarks Corner which is located in Powerview, Mb at the junction of Hwy #11 and #304.

Laurent and Darlene have been in the store for a week or two, but the transfer of ownership did not officially take effect until September 7th.

Raymond told The Echo that they had been looking for a new business for a long time but did not want to leave this community. "It's a good fit for us." He said. "I know what it can do." He said that to get the corner going again would be an asset to the Papertown Motor Inn also.

The restaurant side has been closed. Raymond said the reason was that "there are 13 food outlets in our small community. The market is really saturated." He said that coffee would continue to be served and that the Chester Chicken outlet would continue.

The plans for the Corner store will be a gas bar and convenience store. Raymond said it is a perfect location for a gas bar. He mentioned that a hundred cottage lots at Manigotagan have been drawn, and mining activity at Bissett will both bring more traffic to the highway.

He is looking forward to the fishing season. They are again selling live bait and fishing licences, and are already selling gas and other fishing supplies to the fishermen. With all that is going on with the new venture, he hopes to find time to get in some fishing himself.

In the meantime the store is filling up with merchandise.

Raymond said his policy will be that "if someone asks for it, we'll stock it." It will be open from 6:00 am to 10:00 pm every day of the year, except for Christmas day and Christmas Eve.

Over the winter they will be planning for rebuilding the store. "The goal is to tear down the old building and to rebuild it as a fully functioning store." He said. It will be kept open during the rebuilding process.

Clark's Corner will be open from 6:00 am to 10:00 pm 7 days a week. Conveniently located on the corner of Hwy #11 and #304.

Closing the Cottage

Now that the days are starting to get shorter, the nights chillier, and the kids are back in school for another year, you may be ready to close up your cabin to wait for another summer season.

If you are thinking of completely shutting off your electricity, then be sure that all of the major appliances are turned off, as well as your water heater and electrical room heaters before the main switch is turned off. You will avoid a room heater starting up automatically when flipping the switch back on in the spring.

If you choose to leave the electricity on for the winter season in order to keep a security system or lighting on, then there are several steps that you should take:

The power supply to any space heaters or heating equipment should be turned off at the main panel or unplugged to ensure that they are not running during cold weather when no one is there

Visually check your hydro meter and power lines for any damage, and if you find a line that is down or damaged, call Manitoba Hydro, or your local hydro provider

Inspect all visible wiring to outdoor lights, water pumps, and other equipment. If you find damaged wires, remove the fuse to that circuit or turn off the circuit breaker, and call a qualified electrician

Check all household cords, and if damaged, unplug the appliance and do not use it until the cord is replaced

If you are draining your hot water tank, you should:

Remove fuses or shut off the main breaker to disconnect power to the water heater

Open the hot water tap at the sink. Attach a hose to the tank's drain valve at the bottom of the tank and point the hose outside or towards a drain

Open the drain valve and drain the tank completely.

ENERGY CORNER prepared by Manitoba Hydro

Once tank is empty, remove hose and close drain valve. A few precautions now will allow for a safer and smoother cabin opening and start-up next spring.

Back to school or back to flu?

How to keep our kids healthy this school year

The back to school season seems to polarize students: those who can't wait to get back to class, and those who prefer the lazy days of summer. Regardless of how students feel, most parents seem to share a collective sigh of relief. The fact remains, however, that back to school season is synonymous with cold season. "Any time large groups of people congregate together in tight spaces, germs are shared," says family physician, Dr. Iris Greenwalk. Students of all ages have unique susceptibilities to getting the spreading colds.

This fall, whether your child is off to their first day of kindergarten, grade nine or unpacking their first dorm room, parents can follow these simple steps to help keep their kids healthy and ready to learn this school year.

Elementary, Mr. Dear

Children in elementary school work and play closely together, prime interaction for germ sharing. Encourage hand washing and a lot of it. According to Health Canada, good hand hygiene is the single most important factor in stopping the spread of illness. That's because most viruses are transmitted through germs that linger on hands after coughing or sneezing, on school desks, doorknobs and books. Dr. Greenwalk recommends helping children get into the habit of washing their hands after a cough or sneeze, before eating lunch and of course after going to the bathroom. "With young children it is better to show, not tell," says Dr. Greenwalk. "Demonstrating proper hand washing and sending them to school with an instant hand sanitizer is vital in helping to keep hands germ-free, especially when soap and water aren't available. Some hand sanitizers also offer convenient sizes that clip to backpacks - easy and accessible. Also looking for an instant hand sanitizer with a minimum of 60 per cent alcohol, like Purell "less than that just isn't enough" adds Greenwald. Another helpful tip to keep hands germ free is to encourage children to sneeze or cough into their sleeve or elbow crease.

High School Confidential

Teenagers might fake the odd sick day, but pay close attention to their symptoms, forcing a sick child to school actually has consequences - it's what keeps the vicious cycle of passing germs alive and kicking. Many teachers complain that colds are prevalent in their schools because students come to school when they are sick. If your child shows any signs of illness - cough, runny nose or obvious fever, keep them at home to allow them to rest and avoid infecting other students. Teenagers are also in a stage where they are forming lifelong social and health habits. Capitalize on this by encouraging healthy routines, plenty of sleep, good diet, hand hygiene and exercise habits.

Freshman Student Aid

While many parents find it daunting to send their child off to university or college, most post-secondary students are well prepared and up to the challenge.

College or university is often the first time students make individual life choices, and might also be the first time a student is faced with a flu or bad cold on their own. If they do get sick away from home, educate them on how to get better and when to seek medical attention.

"University of college aged students still need to be parented, but in a different way," She encourages parents to continue to educate their children on proper eating and sleeping habits, despite the temptations of dorm life. Pack them supplies of healthy snacks when possible and encourage them to take care of themselves. A weakened immune system can be a student's worse enemy, and germs can spread easily in the cramped lecture halls and social activities on campus.

General Tips for all students

- Ensure your children have their annual Physical before the school year starts.
- Encourage hand washing before eating and numerous times throughout the day. When soap and water are not available, supply them with an instant hand sanitizer.
- Remind your kids to keep their hands away from their face (particularly mouth and eyes).
- Help your child develop good eating habits, including a variety of health foods and plenty of fluids.
- Rest is important for children of all ages. Encourage regular sleep patterns.
- Remind your kids to wear both straps when carrying backpacks. While it may be more fashionable to carry it on one shoulder, it makes their load harder to bear and increases risk of injury.

Canadian entrepreneurs look to the future

Global competitiveness

Two years ago Wayne Jang faced a challenge. Customers for the modular furniture he produces in his Richmond, BC, factory were pleased with the mid-range workstations, desks and bookcases he produced for them but they wanted more.

Could CWC Modular Industries think about meeting their needs for low end product as well, they asked. They wanted to go head on with chain operations such as Staples.

Mr. Jang looked West to China. He spent six months doing his research, visiting factory after factory in the province of Guangdong. He enlisted the help of friends and relatives living in Southern China. Finally he narrowed the field to three potential factories.

Today CWC is in the first stages of becoming an importer as well as a manufacturer. Product from China is shipped in containers to his recently expanded Richmond factory, inspected for quality and then shipped to customers. The plan, he says, is to start shipping directly to his distributors as soon as he is certain quality can be maintained.

CWC will continue producing high end, custom furniture in British Columbia plus any items that demand a fast turnaround. That market, however, is limited in its growth potential. Imports of much less expensive work stations have given new life to the company, he explains.

"I think they are going to add significantly to our company's growth," says Mr. Jang.

Wayne Jang is on the leading edge of a growing trend among Canadian businessmen, says Jean-René Halde, President and CEO of BDC.

"He realizes that whether a business is big or small, we all operate in an increasingly global marketplace," says Mr. Halde. "The focus has to be on maintaining that ability to compete."

While in past much of the focus among Canadian businesses has been on increasing productivity, that is but a single element in a well managed company, he continues.

"What is absolutely essential is that ability to compete," he says. "You often hear entrepreneurs say global competition has no impact on them, no relevance. That may be true today but what about tomorrow?"

"While all companies should continue to improve internal processes, increase efficiency and streamline management, they must also look outward," Mr. Halde says.

"If I had a single message for Canadian businesses it would be to lift your eyes towards the horizon," he says. "Understand that we can no longer afford to focus within our own boundaries and within the boundaries of North America."

Granted the United States is Canada's largest trading partner; 40% of Canada's GDP comes from North-South trade. But vast new opportunities are opening for Canadian companies, especially in Asia.

China - with nearly 1.5 billion people - is a prime example, says Mr. Halde. Today the Chinese personal and corporate savings rate equals 47% of that nation's GDP. The central government, however, has said its goal is to reduce that to 40%. The result will be an unprecedented demand for consumer goods.

India also affords unique opportunities as do the former Soviet Bloc nations. Canadian companies are finding both new markets and new sources of production in Latin America, Asia, the Mid-East and Europe.

"There are vast new markets opening up and terrific opportunities to reduce production and operating costs," says Mr. Halde. "The first step is to look around and identify potential opportunities. The next step is to investigate, to do research. BDC can help with that."

It can also provide the necessary financing. In Mr. Jang's case that meant expanding his Richmond factory to physically handle containers full of imports. It also meant initial financing of the import operation.

The result, however, is a new form of company, one that is a hybrid of manufacturer and importer, a company with a foot solidly in Canada and another in a major global marketplace.

Mr. Jang and CWC Modular is just one example of what Canadian companies can do to become international players.

"BDC has proven very forward looking," says Mr. Jang. "It was right there when we needed financing to expand into China. BDC's support is going to make a significant difference in our future."

Looking to the future is the essence of what BDC does, says Mr. Halde.

"Our focus and our mandate is to help create Canadian success stories. In past our nature was not to be international traders. That has to change," he says. BDC is committed to helping small and mid-market companies make the transition. We want all of them to be able to reap the benefits of becoming global companies."

Agassiz Garden Club

After a very successful August Flower Show at the Community Centre, the Agassiz Garden Club is starting its Fall schedule of events. Please note that the Club has changed both its traditional day and place of meeting for this year. We will be meeting the second Wednesday of the month (instead of the second Tuesday, as in the past) at 7 p.m. in the Anglican Church Parish Hall. Our first event will be our annual potluck dinner on Wednesday, September 6. It will be at 6 p.m., instead of the usual 7 p.m., in the Parish Hall. All members, prospective members, guests and spouses are welcome to attend, simply bring a salad, casserole, dessert, etc. The speaker for the meeting is Arlene Wheeler from Schreimer's Garden Centre in Winnipeg. She will be speaking and answering questions about fall jobs in the garden.

The Junior Gardeners of the Agassiz Garden Club wound up their Summer with the traditional wiener roast at the home of the Volmering family in River Hills on August 29. The youngsters played games while parents and leaders relaxed around the bonfire. They put on a super display at the Flower Show. The leaders would like to thank this great group of kids and very helpful parents and hope they all had a fun time gardening this summer.

Faith Perspective

Library Corner

by Pastor Jake Doell

Peace - Is it possible?

Our world seems to be reeling from one crisis of war to another. Violence and war are taking their toll even on our peace keeping troops serving over in the Middle East. The question asked by many "Is world peace even possible?" Most wars that have been fought have usually come to an end when both sides agreed to sign a peace treaty. Most recently a peace truce was agreed upon by the Israeli's and the Hezbollah fighters, the problem with that is that most peace treaties have a very short shelf life. Very few peace treaties that have been signed have lasted for more than a few years.

Even in our own nation we see far too often one of our own Law Enforcement Officers gunned down in violence. Then there is the other war of divorce that is being fought in our homes. It effects are just as devastating as those fought in the Middle East. A similarity is that the refugees are the generally the children. How can we bring peace to a broken world when we don't have peace in our families? The financial cost of the wars in our homes is just as great, if not greater than our entire defense budget. Why does peace seem to be such an elusive thing?

Let me encourage you. There is peace available to all who genuinely seek peace. Whether it is in our homes, or communities or the world at large, peace is possible. Jesus Christ is referred to in the Bible as "the Prince of Peace." (Isaiah 9:6) Mankind was at war with God from the Garden of Eden till this present day. God allowed His Son Jesus Christ to be put to death on a cross nearly 2000 years ago. With the shedding of His innocent blood, God made a peace pact with humanity. When we invite Christ into our hearts and lives He brings a peace "that goes beyond human understanding. "Don't worry about anything; instead pray about everything. Tell God what you need, and thank Him for all He has done. Then you will experience God's peace which exceeds anything we can understand. His peace will guard your hearts and minds as you live in Christ Jesus." (Philippians 4:6&7) My friend if you seek further spiritual counsel and help, feel free to go and speak to a pastor.

How smart is your dog? If you've ever wondered what is really going on inside your dog's head, here is your chance to find out. "The Intelligence of Dogs: A Guide to the Thoughts, Emotions, and Inner Lives of Our Canine Companions" by Stanley Coren is a controversial book that is radically changing the way we think about man's best friend.

Since a dog you choose to live with will probably be a part of the family for more than ten years, it is important to choose a breed of dog that will make living with the dog a rewarding and enjoyable experience for both dog and owner. "The Complete Encyclopedia of Dogs" by Esther J. J. Verhoef-Verhallen covers a variety of breeds that are familiar and also those that are not recognized. The book not only includes descriptions and pictures of breeds from around the world, it also includes how to care for your dog.

We now have a booklet in the library on "Family Law for Children" which has been prepared by the Community Legal Education Association of Manitoba. This booklet supplies information for kids about separation and divorce and supplies information on what happens if there is violence in the family, information on blended, extended families, guardianship and foster families, and what to do if children worry about being taken away when mom or dad moves away.

One final reminder that the library's major annual fundraiser, the Fall Supper, is being held on Saturday, September 16th at the Legion Hall. The dinner is made possible by the generosity of the community in volunteering groceries, helping at the dinner and once again by the capable Legion Ladies Auxiliary who plan in advance and prepare for this event. For more information or to reserve your tickets call the library at 345-2653.

ECHOES FROM THE H Heart.

The Monkey King

Once a tribe of forest monkeys had a chief who was, not only splendid in appearance and wise as well, but he had the ability to know the future. When he noticed a grove of mango trees upstream of the local king's residence, he ordered his troop to remove all the fruit from the trees saying that if they did not do so, disaster would surely follow. The monkeys could not perceive what was in store, but they did as they were told. All the mangos, still unripe, were picked save one that was hidden by a bird's nest.

One day, when finally that mango ripened it fell into the river. It was transported downstream where the Human King was bathing, and he noticed it and asked his minister what it was. When told it was called mango and that it was the queen of fruit, the Human King ordered the mango cut into small pieces and distributed among the people there. Satisfied that the fruit was not poisonous, he also enjoyed some of it and naturally, he craved more.

The next day, the Human King and his men went upstream to search for the source of the mangos. Where there were lots of mango trees, there were also lots of monkeys. Not willing to share the fruit with the animals, he ordered that they be exterminated. When news of the massacre reached the Monkey King, he knew the time had come for him to do his duty. The thousands of monkeys were chased to the very edge of the forest where there was a deep gorge. The Monkey King saw that if his subjects could cross over to the bamboo grove on the far side, they would be safe from the hunters. The Monkey King managed to extend his majestically large body over the gap to form a bridge, so that the troop could escape. Thousands of monkeys trampled over him to reach the safety of the bamboo forest, and he held on enduring all the pain. One monkey who harbored some ill feeling against the Monkey King took this opportunity to get even. As he clambered across, he stabbed the Monkey King's through the heart. The Monkey King screamed, but managed to endure until all his subjects were safely across. Only then could he collapse.

The Human King witnessed the selfless act, and was so touched that he ordered the life of the Monkey King be saved. When the Monkey King finally regained consciousness, the man asked him, "You are their king; why would you sacrifice your own life for them?". The Monkey King replied, "Precisely because I am their king". With those words, he died.

This lesson in duty and sacrifice was not lost on the Human King. He made the vow to do whatever he could to help his own people no matter the cost. The Human King also gave the order that the monkeys of the bamboo forest be protected forever after.

Delivering Tax Relief for All Canadians

If there is a defining economic issue for the new Conservative government, it is a firm commitment to lowering the tax burden for all Canadians. In our first budget this spring, we came through on that commitment, delivering $20 billion in tax relief across the board. This is more tax relief than Liberal governments provided in their previous four budgets combined.

Every Canadian will send less money to Ottawa in taxes under this government, including Canada's seniors. Our government values the contribution our older citizens have made to our country, and understands the challenges many of them face in living on pensions and fixed incomes.

In our budget, we recognized the importance of living in comfort and dignity for our seniors. For the first time in more than thirty years, we raised the amount of eligible pension income that can be claimed under the pension income credit. Doubling the limit from $1,000 to $2,000 will mean savings of up to $155 for each pensioner, and remove as many as 85,000 pensioners from the federal tax rolls altogether.

Of course, the reduction in the GST will also mean more money in the pocket of every single Canadian. This is especially true for those on lower incomes, including many seniors, who may pay no income tax. Our government believes that these Canadians deserve a tax break too, and the GST is the one tax that we all pay, regardless of income level. As we promised during the election campaign, in our first budget, we reduced the GST from seven to six per cent, and we've committed to bringing it down further to five per cent.

Every Canadian – seniors, students, even businesses – will see savings every time they make a purchase, regardless of how large or small.

When you add the other tax relief measures that we've put in place as a result of the budget, it becomes clear that there has been a true shift in mindset at the federal level. In addition to the GST cut and the doubled pension credit limit, Canadians will get tax relief on tools, textbooks, transit passes and kids' sports. With broad-based personal income tax relief, combined with these targeted tax cuts, the budget removes 655,000 low-income Canadians from the tax rolls altogether.

Under the Liberals, taxes remained high and it remained difficult to make ends meet, even as the federal surplus grew. They made hasty pre-election promises to lower taxes, but never followed through with legislation to put them into effect. The new Conservative government believes that this surplus should be given back to the Canadians who created it – hardworking Canadian taxpayers, including seniors who have worked their whole lives to build the country.

Province commits $1 million for Trans Canada Trail Development in Manitoba

PINAWA-Premier Gary Doer announced the province is committing $1 million to the Manitoba Recreational Trails Association and today is providing $500,000 to assist volunteers in their efforts to continue the construction of the Manitoba portion of the Trans Canada Trail (TCT) with the remainder to flow over the next two years as the trail is further developed.

"The trail highlights many of the incredible nature walks and vistas Manitoba offers both visitors and those who are lucky enough to live here," Doer said here today. "This funding will support volunteers with special building projects along the Trans Canada Trail, the implementation of a maintenance plan for the trail, interpretive signage and administration."

The Trans Canada Trail is a shared-use trail (walking, cycling, equestrian, skiing and snowmobiling), linking Canada's three oceans. The 18,000-kilometre trail will be the longest continuous trail in the world once it is complete. The 1,300-kilometre Manitoba portion of the trail will link hundreds of communities and traverse seven eco-districts when completed.

The trail crosses pristine landscapes from San Clara in the west to Falcon Lake in the east and reaches down to the United States border at Emerson. It also travels through Whiteshell Provincial Park, Lac du Bonnet, Belair Provincial Forest, Grand Beach, the Mars Sand Hills, Selkirk, Winnipeg, St. Norbert, Miami, Somerset, Spruce Woods Provincial Park, Neepawa, Sandy Lake, Russell and Asessippi Provincial Park. The official trail map is available at <http://www.mrta.mb.ca> for trail updates prior to planning a hike.

The Manitoba Recreational Trails Association (MRTA), Manitoba's official trail council, assists 17 community-based, volunteer trail groups which are tackling the construction of the TCT across Manitoba.

"The Manitoba Trans Canada Trail is truly an outstanding example of how volunteers throughout the province have created magnificent, multi-use trails for our citizens and guests to Manitoba," said Doer.

Development of a provincial recreational trail complements several of the key recommendations of the all-party Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures Task Force. It highlights the promotion of activities that are less dependent on expensive facilities.

Ask the Neighbourhood Mechanic

by Dave Redinger

Silver has been the most popular colour for cars more many years now. Silver just seems to add something to that new car look. Especially, if it's German. Speaking of colours there has been a story floating around that if your car was red the insurance company would surcharge you. So to put an end to this rumour I asked. According to George Cooke (he's the CEO of the Dominion of Canada General Insurance Company) nothing could be further from the truth. Colour has no bearing on what your insurer will charge. The fact that it's clinging to the side of a Ferrari has more to do with the car than the shade. By the way what's safest colour out there? Yellow.

My automatic Ford Focus (2.0 L engine) has 20,000 kms on it. When I had my oil changed today I asked the dealer if it would be beneficial to switch to synthetic oil and was told there was no real benefit, that it was more expensive, and that I would still need to have my oil changed every 5,000 kms. The rumours I've heard have been that synthetic oil makes engines last longer and you don't need to have it changed as often. So who's right?

Lynda
Synthetic oil has the ability to withstand more abuse. In short, it will operate at higher temperatures and shear loads without breaking down. This performance potential is ideal for high performance engines or conversely vehicles that are towing. A lot of manufactures allow the oil changes to extend to 8000kms. Personally I like to change oil every 4 months or 5000 kms. The dealer is correct in his advice. I would suggest synthetic if you are planning to tow otherwise stick to the recommended oil.

We purchased a used 2001 Nissan Sentra from a KIA dealership for our son. He didn't have it more than 6 hours when the service engine light came on. He took it back to Kia, they told him the gas cap was put on wrong. That seemed to fix it temporarily, but; it has since come on again. They suggested he purchase a new gas cap, which he did, the service engine light is still coming on. He is scheduled to bring it in for service again next week to have this problem looked at. Could make any suggestions? Perhaps, we should take it to a Nissan dealership? We have a 12 month warranty on this car with Kia.

Joyce
Today's cars are basically computers on wheels. The engine "service soon" light is advising the operator that one of the sensors in the driveline has gone out of range. There are several reasons for this to occur and sometimes the solution is complicated. The KIA shop is capable of this repair, provided they spend some quality time with the car. I would suggest that you leave the vehicle with the shop for a day or more. Ask for a loaner. Keep records of all work orders in case things get nasty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You can accomplish a great deal. You will have to check your cash flow before you decide to indulge in hobbies or entertainment that may be beyond your budget. The experience will be good. Help if you can, but more than likely it will be sufficient just to listen.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec 21)
Get together with friends who like to participate in indoor sports. You must not let others talk you into doing things that will probably limit you financially at a later date.
