

Big jump is reported in American visitors entering Manitoba

Reversal in trend cited by Hemphill

Business Development and Tourism Minister Maureen Hemphill has announced that the number of American visitors entering Manitoba at US border crossings this May increased by 25 percent over May 1986.

This year 69,834 US travellers entered in May compared with 56,005 last year.

"This unprecedented May traffic has reversed the trend which has persisted so far this year and much of last year," the minister said. "The May increase has completely nullified the decreases experienced thus far in 1987."

As of May 31, travel by US visitors entering through Manitoba ports this year by all modes has increased by 2.4 percent over the same period in 1986.

"What is particularly encouraging," said Hemphill, "is that visitors staying at least one night increased by 25 percent in May and are up five percent for the first five months in 1987."

"Indeed, we actually had more US visitors than these numbers provided by Statistics Canada indicate, because they do not include Americans entering from Ontario or Saskatchewan. In addition to the US visitor increase, we had a bonus with overnight visitors from foreign countries, other than the US, increasing seven percent in May and 6.5 percent in the first five months."

Hemphill noted that the May increase of US visitors was by far the strongest in Canada, more than double the next nearest province, Quebec, which had an increase of just under 12 percent.

"This trend reversal certainly furnishes grounds for optimism. Although we will not have definite numbers for at least a week, preliminary observations suggest that traffic from other provinces and travel by Manitobans in Manitoba will exceed even the excellent results of 1986," the minister said.

"The tourism industry along with myself and the Department of Tourism are most optimistic that this year will be a successful year for tourism. The importance of tourism industry is reflected in the fact that it represents the province's third largest earner of export dollars and provides employment for thousands of Manitobans. Please join me in extending a warm Manitoba welcome to all our visitors."

Victoria Beach Arts Display brings out local talent

by Dess Trudell

On July 5, at the Victoria Beach Sports Centre, the Manitow Rapids Arts Council held their second annual arts and crafts exhibition. The first year they had held it in the school. This year there were 200-300 people passing through, to view all the displays and buy those that were for sale that caught their fancy.

The show was put on by Nancy-Lou Ateah and Jocelyn Monsen, both of Victoria Beach and with MRAC. They said they were overwhelmed by the response, and even though the building was very warm, it did not deter anyone from coming. Some of the comments overheard was that there was a good calibre of work shown; nice to see so many of the local talent being displayed. People seemed to be surprised to find out that there really is a lot of pretty fine home town talented people around, when they do decide to present their work to the public. It is surprising when you find out that your neighbour has such an artistic soul!

The raffles are always drawn at these events and the winners were: 1st prize — Adrian Farmer, a wood carving by Max Bossi; 2nd — Jim Grey, a pair of handmade dolls by Jocelyn Monsen; 3rd — Ann Ateah, a crocheted centre piece by Nancy Ateah.

These are the lists of participants and the entries:

1. Irene Pruden from Patricia Beach with knitting, sewing, quilting and mini-furniture. All these articles were for sale.

2. Stan Gold from Pine Falls showing his leaded glass lamps. Not for sale.

3. John Markert from Silver Falls with his oil paintings for sale.

4. Jim Dawson from Pine

Falls, had several hand carved wooden duck decoys for sale.

5. Vera Dickson from Grand Marais with ceramics to show only.

6. Helen Smith from Victoria Beach with her quilts for sale.

7. Dorothy Galusha-Folta from Winnipeg and Victoria Beach showed an oil on canvas which was not for sale.

8. Wayne MacDonald and Jean Valentine from Balsam Bay had wood working and lawn furniture for sale.

9. Mar Desmit of Winnipeg and the beach showed his oil, acrylic, and ink paintings and they were available for sale.

10. Ruby M. Flook of Winnipeg had oil paintings for sale.

11. Al Thurarinson of Winnipeg had water colors and acrylics for sale.

12. Bill Eisler of Belair had acrylic, water color, pastels and pencil art for sale.

13. Betty Gibson from Belair had needlepoint and paintings for sale.

14. Ed Martin of Victoria Beach and Winnipeg showed a hooked rug and it sold for over $300.00.

15. Oreste Gallery, owner Max Bossi of St. Georges, had wood carvings of his own, picture frames, and native water colors all for sale.

16. Rolande Germaine of Sunset Beach had some of her quilts and fuzzy animals she handmakes, all for sale.

The aisles were filled with tables full of crafts and it would be hard to resist browsing over long at many of them. The walls had been filled with all the artists paintings and drawings, as well as the children's displays that Nancy Ateah had arranged to have shown for this occasion. As well, Nancy had her own artwork in display. One display was from Regina and belonged to Beth Norman of that city.

Only by coming out to art shows and exhibitions like this, can you ever realize what a lot of hidden talent lurks in our own neighbourhood. The children's artwork shows that there will be some up and coming artists in the near future as well. The members of the committee feel this has been a very successful event, and we will be sure to take it in next year.

YEAR-END FINANCIAL STATEMENT RELEASED

Local gardener boasts 9-foot lily

Manitoba's preliminary unaudited year-end financial statement shows continued improvement in the province's total budgetary requirements — declining a further $6.9 million from the third quarter projection to $559.8 million for the 1986-87 fiscal year.

Finance Minister Eugene Kostyra, releasing the fourth-quarter report for the year ending March 31, 1987, said he was pleased the government was able to make steady progress in reducing budgetary requirements from the second-quarter projection of $587.4 million.

Total current and capital expenditures of $3,945.6 million were up $4.8 million from the third-quarter projection and total revenues of $3,385.8 million were up $11.7 million from the third-quarter projection.

Compared to the budget estimates for the 1986-87 fiscal year, the preliminary year-end report shows a $76 million of 1.96 percent increase in total expenditures.

Kostyra noted that special warrants of $94.5 million for cost increases, including the Health Services Commission ($25.8 million), Public School Support ($12.5 million), Community Health Services ($8.7 million), Economic Security programs ($12.1 million) and Flood Control ($3.7 million), were required.

Increased statutory payments of approximately $73.8 million were required to meet larger than anticipated charges for public debt and hydro rate stabilization.

Revenue was $5.6 million or 0.16 percent more than the printed estimates. While federal payments under the Established Programs Financing Act were down $15.8 million and corporate income taxes were down $27.1 million, mining tax revenues were up $12.5 million and personal income taxes were up $40.4 million from printed estimates.

The finance minister noted that revenues from tobacco taxes were down $5.8 million and revenues from the Liquor Control Commission were down $3.1 million.

At $310.5 million the net operating deficit was $8.2 million lower than the third-quarter projection and $45.7 million lower than the second-quarter projection, but $86.9 million higher than budget estimates.

Expenditure authority totalling $92.3 million was allowed to lapse.

Information in the preliminary, unaudited financial report will be reviewed in detail both by the department and by the provincial auditor prior to the publication of the public accounts for 1986-87 later in the year, the minister said. "While some revisions in the final revenue, expenditure, and deficit figures are possible, past experience indicates such changes would be relatively small," he said.

Kostyra said recent steps, such as strengthening of treasury board, continue to improve government control of expenditures and will assist in ensuring the best possible management of public tax dollars.

Total budgetary requirements for the 1987-88 fiscal year are projected to be $415 million.

A nine-foot lily?

Yes, it's a lily and growing prolifically in the garden of Peter and Frances Hiker of Pine Falls. Standing over nine feet tall, held up by 12 foot pipe poles, the Hikers know the plant is a lily, but do not know what type and are hoping someone can help identify it.

The blooms are pink with a yellow centre and a single black sprig growing in each bloom. The flowers are six inches long and two inches in diameter, but will open to four inches in diameter.

Although the photo does not show the lily in full bloom, the Hikers were anxious to get a picture in case heavy rain came along and crushed it.

The plant was given to Mrs. Hiker last spring by her daughter-in-law Valerie Hiker, one of two that Valeria had. While Valerie's plant is a normal two feet tall, Frances' has more than tripled its normal height.

The second year of growth is larger than last year; one wonders how high it is going to grow next year? Also, the lily had one stalk last year, two this year and shows signs of a third.

The Hikers refer to the lily as their very own "beanstalk". Frances loves to grow all sorts of flowers and judging by her garden she has a very green thumb.

Frances Hiker stands beside her nine foot tall lily.

THE BOOK NOOK

by Jackie Bouvier

When you walk down the aisles in a shopping mall, have you ever felt as though everyone else is walking the opposite way to you? On July 18, I went to St. Vital Centre with Mrs. Bossi to buy books for the library. There was a sidewalk sale, and everytime I took a step I walked into someone.

We bought adult, children, and teen books and had a lot of fun. I am really glad that I got the chance to go, it was one of the things that I'll remember most about my job at the library this summer. (Even though I say that about every new experience

I've had this summer!)

Back at the Library Allard there are new displays, crafts, and new books for you to experience. This week we have three exciting series for you to enjoy. "The Australians" by William Stuart Long is about rebels and outcasts, who fled halfway across the earth to settle the harsh Australian wastelands. "The Canadians" by Robert E. Wall is about the proud men and passionate women of early Canada who dared to conquer the continent. Finally, "The Daughters" by Aola Vandergriff is the tumultuous story of three sisters searching for wealth, happiness and love along three separate pathways.

For those of you planning to get into shape this summer we have a few books on exercise (some tapes as well), but you'll have to run down here and grab them because there are not that many left.

Of course, while you are busy getting in shape your children will need something to do. Since they already know about the crafts and storytime on Mondays (I hope, if not call 367-8443 for information), or they could come take out a Charlie Brown 'Cyclopedia or a French Smurf book. A new treat is a teen display of books for girls.

Next week you can look forward to more of the same, but this time I'll keep it a surprise. Hope you can wait. See you next week, bye!

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Send them back

At the risk of sounding heartless and uncaring we say send the 174 East Indian refugees back from whence they came.

When a boatload of Tamils from Sri Lanka landed on Canada's doorstep a short while ago, we felt, as did many others, that the human thing to do was open our doors wide to them.

In so doing Canada has now gotten the reputation of being soft and easy on immigration policy.

In playing the role of a nation willing to open its doors to desperate persons who are persecuted in their homeland, we have created another bigger problem for ourselves. We may have eased our conscious but we've ended up with a giant headache.

If this current boatload of refugees is accepted, then we can expect another boatload, and another, and another.

It just isn't right that we should accept these East Indians who are dropped off on our doorstep by unscrupulous entrepreneurs who make large profits in delivering their human cargo, meanwhile those who want to come to Canada and have gone through the regular immigration channels, are forced to wait...and wait.

Some argue that immigrants are taking away jobs from Canadians. We don't subscribe to that theory. And race, colour or creed have nothing to do with it.

It's basically a simple matter.

Send them back on the ship they came to Canada in and let them go through regular, legal channels.

RECREATION NEWS and VIEWS

3rd annual Eastman regional playday

On Friday, July 24, Birds Hill Park will be the setting for the 1987 edition of regional playday.

This day-long event culminates months of planning by the six recreation directors in the Eastman region, who in co-operation with Culture, Heritage and Recreation sponsor this event.

Location for playday is rotated yearly to give everyone equal opportunity to attend.

Attendance at the event usually averages between 200-250 children from playground programs in the Eastman region.

Activities at this year's event include a scavenger hunt, arts and crafts, folk singers, the "incredible string man" and Gerald Laroche.

All children are welcome to attend, with those registered in playground bringing home information sheets. The cost to attend will be $2.00 per child and children are asked to bring a lunch and wear suitable clothing.

We will be departing at 8:30 a.m. and returning by 4:30 p.m. Volunteer drivers are needed, so if you can spare the time, please contact the recreation office, or if you would like further information, call us up!

Summer ballet workshop

Do you have children aged eight to twelve who would like to try ballet, but don't know if they would like it?

The recreation district has arranged a six-day summer ballet workshop with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's Tina Cooper. This workshop begins Monday, August 10 and ends Saturday, August 15.

The cost per student would be $35.00 for the six days, but in order to have this workshop we require a minimum of fifteen participants.

Students would be exposed to jazz and ballet, with the group being separated into beginner and advanced sections. Each section would receive one-and-one-half hours of instruction per day for a total of nine hours for the six days.

Take advantage of this opportunity to expose your kids to ballet and jazz and sign up before July 31. To sign up, contact the recreation office.

Get into the swim of things!

So, ballet is not your thing, do you like swimming? Do your kids like swimming?

If so, be the first on the list to sign up for the swim meet at Pine Falls pool, on Saturday, August 15.

Events planned are the 50 meter and one hundred meter free-style, breast stroke and back stroke as well as the four person relay. Age categories are 9-10; 11-12; 13-14; 15-17; 18-26; 27-34; 35-50 and 50+. Races for 50 and over are 25 meters only.

Registration deadline will be August 12 for divisional meets (Pine Falls, Steinbach and Pinawa) and a fee of $3.00 entitles participants to enter three events. To register, contact the recreation office.

Touch football clinic

This is the opportunity for people of all ages to "reach out and touch someone" without it costing a lot of money!

Kids aged 10-15 (male and female) can participate in a clinic on Tuesday, August 4 from 1:00 - 3:00 p.m. at Pine Falls School. This clinic teaches the idea and skills needed for the game, which is fast becoming one of the most popular team sports in Manitoba.

Adults need not feel they are being left behind. A clinic has been arranged for adults (18 years and over, male and female) on Wednesday, August 12 from 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. at Powerview School field. For adults, not as much skill development is needed so more time is spent on strategy.

Touch football is a sport in the 1987 Eastman regional summer games as well as the 1988 Eastman regional summer and provincial summer games being held in Beausejour/Pinawa.

The best part (saved for last), the cost to each participant (adults and kids) is one dollar, can you believe it? One "gold-coloured looney" will see you registered for this clinic!

Man. Heart Foundation raises $1.5M

The Manitoba Heart Foundation has surpassed its 1987 heart fund goal, raising a total of $1,533,000, an increase of over 8.3% last year.

Highlights of the campaign include the business and professional communities which demonstrated their support by continuing to give increased sums to finance heart and stroke research.

Out of every dollar raised, 86 cents goes towards heart and stroke research and education. Since 1955, cardiovascular death rates under 65 have been reduced by 34%.

Research developments in Canada include heart by-pass operations, valve replacements, and the pacemaker. This year, the Manitoba Heart Foundation allocated $1.9 million to personal support and thirty-three research grant-in-aid projects in Manitoba.

The 1988 heart fund campaign goal is $1,654,000.

THE GARDEN PLOT

by Cathleen Thurston
 Here is some more about some of the more common annuals available for use in flowerbeds, borders, etc.
Salpiglossis sinuata — has beautiful trumpet-shaped flowers of purple, red, yellow, bronze, blue and pink in various combinations, often bicolored and richly veined. A native of Chile it likes cool summers and protection from the wind. It can be quite tricky to grow and is nitrogen sensitive so fertilize very lightly. Salpiglossis grows 2-3 feet high and may require support. Use at the rear of a border and for cut flowers. Plant in rich, moist, light sandy loam with excellent drainage in full sun, spaced 8-12" apart; water moderately.
Salvia (salvia farinacea and salvia splendens) — both types are used for bedding, borders, containers, and as cut flowers. Plant them in well-drained, moist, rich soil high in organic matter, in full sun, spaced 6-12" apart. Keep well-watered though they will tolerate mild drought and hold up well in intense heat. Make long-lasting cut flowers.

S. splendens, also known as scarlet sage, is the best known sylvia and comes with bright red, pink, mauve, purple or white flowers and green foliage. It performs well in light shade and grows from 6 to 36" tall. Native to Brazil it has the added feature of being attractive to hummingbirds.
S. farinacea, or blue sage, has violet blue or silvery blue flowers with grayish foliage. It grows 18-36" in height and is native to Texas and New Mexico.

Dusty miller (senecio cineraria) — grown for its silver-white foliage, which is woolly and finely divided like heavy lace, it is mainly used for edging and containers. Daisy-like yellow flowers sometimes appear and should be removed. They grow in 8-10" high, tight, compact clumps which should be cut back to prevent legginess. Originally from the Mediterranean area, dusty miller is beautiful in the moonlight as the silvery hairs reflect the dimmest light. Plant in light well-drained soil high in organic matter, but will perform well in dry sandy soil. Plant in full sun (tolerates light shade), 8-10" apart. Water lightly.

Nasturtium (tropaeolum majus) — thrives in the poorest soil with very little care. Plant in sandy, dry, infertile soil which is well-drained. If the soil is rich the results will be lots of beautiful foliage with few flowers. Do not fertilize, but water well (will tolerate drought) and space 8-10" apart. As they are natives of the Andes Mountains of South America, plant them in a cool spot. Use them for trillies, screens, beds, walls, hanging baskets, window boxes and planters. The flowers are yellow, red, orange or white, sometimes bicolored. Some varieties grow about 12" high in bushy clumps, semi-trailers grow 2-6 feet long and trailing ones can grow up to 10 feet in length; they require special support for climbing because they do not have tendrils to help them.

For variety I read the community newspapers

"Variety's the very spice of life." It's 200 years since William Cowper wrote these oft-repeated words, and they're still true.

What do I do for variety? Well, if it's opinions you're talking about, I turn to the community newspapers. When I settle down with an armload, I know that the editorial topics will range from aardvark to zymurgy.

I find comments that are sad, thoughtful, inspirational, and yes, even corny. I take them all seriously. Each reflects some current thinking from a prairie town. Each is an indication of what "they" are talking about.

Big things first. Early in July some editors were still talking about the Meech Lake Accord. At Esterhazy, the editor of the Miner-Journal registers a personal complaint. "As a Canadian, I feel robbed — robbed of my right to know about my elected representatives — Premier Grant Devine, signed on my behalf..."

In the Red River Valley Echo of Altona, I read something which makes me frown. Despite earlier promises, the Accord is not open to amendment, or so the PM has recently stated. This causes The Echo to say, "The premiers have graciously agreed to hold public hearings on the Accord but such hearings will be nothing more than window dressing. The agreement has already been struck and, barring a change in government in any of the provinces, there will be no changes."

Are employees always better off when they join unions? Here's a subject examined by the Dauphin Herald. A bus driver fired from his job has waited four months to learn if his union will take his case to arbitration. He'd like to hire his own lawyer, but to do so he must go before a labor board and prove that the union has been negligent. The Herald says it takes both time and money for a unionist to reclaim his individual rights.

I'm in tune with the Shaunavon Standard when it objects to restrictions on tobacco companies. Here's a paper that says it "has never run a liquor or tobacco ad and possibly never will," but still feels, "We make a grave error in forcing the tobacco and alcohol industries out of advertising."

At Bow Island the editor of the Commentator thinks about that Western Assembly, and renders an opinion. "It is no wonder that a new political party has been formed in the West. The citizens of this part of Canada feel they cannot implement change from within parties that will not listen to their members, therefore, an alternative has to be found."

Another western party is under the gun in the Grenfell Sun. This paper has examined COR policy after receiving a letter from Elmer Knutson and concludes that this man wants "the formation of a confederation of western provinces with its own seat of power. It's lovely how nicely couched the idea of separatism can become at skillful hands of an experienced public figure." Nicely put.

At Lac du Bonnet the editor of The Leader wades into a sensitive subject: cookbooks. He resents being asked to advertise in those printed in far-off cities. He says at least with other fund-raising methods, the money stays in town. "So please, don't come knocking on our door."

When to swath

With the more ample rainfall now, most crops in the district are filling very nicely. Under good moisture conditions, grain and rapeseed crops can be swathed earlier than when it is very dry. Crops under moist conditions will continue to fill and develop while laying in the swath.

Wheat should be swathed at 35% moisture (unless for seed, then should be 25%). This can be determined by checking the wheat heads. The kernels should be in the firm dough stage and starting to yellow. Some second growth heads with plump green kernels can be swathed with the crop without grade loss.

Barley should be swathed at 35% moisture (unless for malt, then should be 30%). When checking feed barley, the kernels are okay if, when cut lengthwise with the thumb nail, the water oozes out. The kernels should be yellow color (straw color for malt barley).

Rapeseed should be swathed when 25% of the seed has reached mature color (yellow or brown depending on type); but the 75% of green seed must be able to take considerable pressure to crush it, when rolled between the fingers.

Most crops are swathed too late to provide the maximum benefit. It is not always possible nor a good idea to wait till all patches of green in the field have turned yellow.

We still have not been able to locate a commercial moisture tester designed to test grain at high moisture levels. Most testers are designed for the grain trade where moisture testing is for low levels and a high degree of accuracy.

Ants are a nuisance

Ants are being reported as a problem by more people this year. They are thriving in houses, yards, gardens and lawns.

Ants are a nuisance, but seldom damage much plant growth. They don't damage lawns, but can build mounds which are a problem when mowing.

They can be controlled easily, but the ant hills must be located to get rid of the real problem. Apply a mixture of 30 ml diazinon 12.5% E.C. in 5 l water (1 fluid oz gall) over the ant hill. There are also some good ant and grub baits which can be dusted on affected areas and on the ant hills.

FOCUS ON:

Reducing the risk of credit card fraud

by Marilyn Zarecki
Home Economist
Manitoba Agriculture
Beausejour, 268-1411

With the increased incidence of credit card fraud, consumers need to protect themselves. Consumers must be on guard when making credit purchases. Credit users can further reduce their chances of becoming fraud victims by following the suggestions listed below:

- Sign all new credit cards immediately.
- Cut up old cards into several pieces before discarding.
- Carry only those cards which are used frequently and leave the rest at home in a safe place.
- Write down the amount of each credit purchase and the account it is charged to.
- Open bills promptly and check each carefully to be sure all charges are correct.
- Keep credit slips and receipts.

- and reconcile these with billing statements.
- Be careful about ordering merchandise over the phone.
- Tear up all carbons after a purchase.
- Report lost or stolen cards immediately.
- Treat credit cards as if they were cash.

Because the cost of credit card fraud is paid for by all credit users in the form of higher prices, it is important to be aware of the problem and consumer rights and responsibilities. By doing so, all of us are less likely to become victims and better able to educate others.

ENERGY CORNER

Prepared by Manitoba Hydro

On a hot summer day when your air conditioner breaks down, your immediate reaction might be to call the serviceman. There are however some checks you can perform yourself that might eliminate a costly service call.

If the problem is one of fuses constantly blowing or breakers tripping, check first to see that the correct outlet, wire size, circuit breaker or time-delay fuse is being used. A separate circuit is usually required for air conditioner units.

Do not use an extension cord to plug in the air conditioner. Once the unit is turned off you must wait at least two minutes before restarting.

If your air conditioner is not cooling properly or is turning off and on frequently, check that the filter is clean and all panels and seals are in place.

Be sure that you have the correct size conditioner for the room or area being cooled. Controls must be set properly for adequate cooling.

Excessive moisture from cooking, laundry, showers, etc. can affect the performance of your air conditioner.

If unfamiliar sounds are coming from your unit, check the control setting to be sure it is set for continuous (not automatic) setting which will reduce frequent stopping/starting sounds.

Remember to check these points before you call the serviceman.

For your free data sheet, Installing a Room Air Conditioner, contact your local Manitoba Hydro representative.
