Young fisherman lands a big one

by Dess Trudell

One excited young fisherman was Scott Murphy of Pine Falls, when he tangled with this sturgeon. When the boys decided to do a little fishing on August 10, they hoped to bring home a few nice pickler for supper.

Thirteen year old Scott didn't know what he had hooked when the fish leaped out and immediately dove to the bottom of the river. It took an hour for him to bring it in, with some grateful assistance from Bill Johnston. This sturgeon was caught on a 10 lb. test line, and when finally landed, it measured 4 feet 11 inches, and weighed 42 pounds. Putting a landing net over its head was about the only way to drag it into their boat.

Others on the river soon gathered around, while it was weighed and measured with Department of Mines and Resource, for a Master Angler's — junior category — certification. It's safe to say this was a thrilling experience, and one which seasoned fishermen anxiously hope for, while they fish the Winnipeg River and Lake.

His dad, Don Murphy, says he couldn't imagine what they would do with so much fish, but that problem has since been taken care of, as it will be a smoked delicacy on their table.

Scott is now a dedicated fisherman, having been hooked, good a proper. That's quite a fish story and one he will tell and re-tell over the years. The sign of a true sportsman.

Abitibi-Price employees retire

by Dess Trudell

When 10 people are no longer employed, within a few weeks of each other, it is noticed.

A list of the most recent retirees was supplied by Industrial Relations Supt. Jack Coote. He said the 10 men and women had been employed for several years with Abitibi-Price and officially, they are, or soon will be, taking their well-earned leisure. Hopefully, they will all enjoy this time to the fullest.

On August 1, 1987 Adelard Pepin with 40 years, and Ovide Lambert with 34 years, will have "punched the clock" one last time.

On September 1, 1987 eight more will follow suit. They are: Marg Ford with 43 years; Ray Lavallee, 43 years; Roland Boulet, 36 years; Alain Lafrenier, 36 years; Emerile Papineau, 35 years; Laurence Berthelette, 32 years; Wilfred Fontaine, 22 years; and Donald Sharpe with 14 years.

As this year rolls by, it shouldn't be too surprising to see a few more preparing for their retirement. This move will undoubtedly open the way for new job postings, transfers, and bring about a few changes throughout the mill, as Mr. Coote pointed out.

There already seems to be a general feeling among some of the more junior men, as they realize there may be an opportunity here to finally make progress — at least towards steadier employment. It may appear to be more than just a rung up — for a couple of reasons.

Nothing is guaranteed, of course, as vacancies are not always filled. Sometimes, those positions are adjusted, diminished, or more often times, they are just eliminated. No one ever forgets that seniority counts first and foremost.

That is sometimes hard to accept, especially when ability should be the main criteria. But it isn't a requisite for a job — See EMPLOYEES / page 4

Walk to promote forestry awareness now over halfway

by Dess Trudell

Bill and Marian are over the half way mark on their "Walk to Promoted Forestry Awareness", visiting the company paper mills and taking advantage of interesting side trips. As this week goes by, the Sharpe's will have arrived at Chatham, N.B.

Since the last report, they have traversed Ontario and Quebec and are probably well ahead of schedule.

We had the pleasure of chatting with Betty McCullough, sister-in-law of Marian and Bill. She gave an overall view of the area the Sharpe's are passing through, and described the social and family events, welcoming them to the cities and towns they will visit.

Betty and her husband Carl live in Ottawa and said that Bill is tanned, robust and both are very relaxed. Marian has his walking speed down pat, and they have a system which allows Bill to start early while Marian gets a few extra naps. She then drives the first designated 10 km, gets breakfast prepared, and Bill joins her at this point. She then continues to the next 20 km mark; does whatever she has planned for herself, and when Bill arrives, he rests a few minutes, has some orange juice and sets out to complete the day's walk of 32 km (equivalent to 20 miles).

They may have passed an interesting point and decide to

Pineview community news

by Dess Trudell

Notice the leaves changing color so soon? There is a touch of frost in the air and some of the wind we have experienced recently has put an end to any serious gardening. Most of the perishes have already been picked, pickled and put away. Due to the unusually warm summer making it a fast growing time, the harvests have been abundant. For those of us who left a few tomatoes ripening on the vine, they may still have a chance. The evenings are cool enough, but the delicious smells on the crisp evening air makes this my favorite time of year.

There's a few kids energetically circling the school already. Guess they are eager to get back and meet their friends and begin a new school year. Bet the moms are eager to send them back! At Powerview School, administration day is Wednesday, September 2, and on Thursday, September 3, it is the first day of school for the fall term, 1987. On Monday, September 7, they will be off for the Labour Day and school resumes the next day. The same will apply for Pine Falls School.

Visitors to Pine Falls recently were Sid and Eileen Brewster from Vancouver Island. They made sure to visit Phil Cyr and many of their friends here on their stop-over. They had attended a Brewster family reunion in Winnipeg and then continued on to Thunder Bay to visit Sid's mother.

The seniors in the Adult Day Care program will be aware by now of the latest addition to Marla and Rolly Berard's family, but just in case — the Berards have had a little son on August 15, and he is named Benoit Jonathon. Marla has devoted a great deal of time to the Adult Day Care, as well as to her career as nurse in the Pine Falls Public Health office. She will certainly find her days overflowing, and we are all happy for her and Rolly and Phillip.

Get well soon so you can race me to the elevators! To the man in the Health Sciences, H3, No. 349, and to Dianna at Grace Hospital. Hope you are both feeling better by the time you read this.

OTHER OPINION

The Plaindealer

There is always a sense of loss when one sees a private business in a small town fold. The loss seems more acute when that business is in the same field as ourselves. So it was with a great sense of sadness that we heard last week that the Souris Plaindealer was ceasing publication after serving Souris and community for 92 years.

Since the announcement, there has been a considerable amount of criticism and comment from both the former publisher, Garth Stouffer and the business community of Souris. Mr. Stouffer says that it wasn't the new paper, the Souris Valley Echo, that put him out of business but rather the lack of advertising from the merchants of Souris. The merchants says that they didn't like the fact that the publisher and his family didn't live in Souris — at least for the past six months.

Both arguments have some validity. However, the plain fact remains that no paper that has been in any community for 92 years is going to be put out of business in a few months by another paper unless there are deep seated problems.

Quite simply, there hasn't been enough local advertising — even in the past four months in both papers — to keep one paper going. While the merchants in Souris may be thinking that their newspaper problems are over with the Souris Valley Echo winning the battle for survival, they should think again. If the merchants are prepared to sit back and not support the Echo then it will only be a matter of time before it decides that it is not a viable operation and it too may fold. This would be a disaster to the community and the merchants. Let's face facts, merchants don't place advertising on the basis of whether they like a certain publisher or not. They place advertising in order to promote and create sales in their business places. Without a paper they will be deprived of that benefit which will not only have an adverse effect on the community but first and foremost on their own businesses.

A reminder

The Winnipeg River Historical Project would like to remind those who wish to have one of the books, that the group is continuing to accept advance book orders. The down payment of twenty dollars will ensure one book will be ordered for you. If more than one book is requested, each request must be accompanied with a down payment, a complete address and name, or names.

The WRHP will have a booth set up at the 4P Festival's Market Square, in the Powerview Arena on September 6 and 7, during the Labour Day period.

The more orders the group receives for the book the lower the cost. Come out and meet them at the 4P and get more information. They'll be glad to see you.

OTHER OPINION:

Overcoming fear of free trade

by Anna M. Smith

Picture this: a giant grey elephant, wearing a top hat painted with stars and stripes and reading a book entitled, "Free Trade: The Making of the 51st State". Underneath the mammoth creature is a very uncomfortable looking Brian Mulroney.

This was a cartoon that appeared recently on one of the inside front pages of a large daily newspaper. True, the idea of using an elephant to sit on the prime minister was no doubt sparked by some unfortunate comments made by Mulroney before he assumed the leadership of his party, but it's equally true that the message portrayed in this cartoon is indicative of an inherent suspicion many people have about free trade.

But enough's enough. The nasty rumors being circulated about free trade irreparably damaging a good chunk of the Canadian workforce and peeling away at our cultural sovereignty are more than one-sided; they're also an irresponsible and premature presentation of the facts.

In short, fear of free trade has become an all-too important player during these final months of negotiations. President of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business, John Bulloch, calls the response "fear mongering".

For example, Bulloch points to some comments made by federal Liberal leader John Turner after the recent announcement of a shut-down at the Firestone rubber plant in Hamilton. Turner said the closing — which will leave an estimated 1,300 people out of work — is an indication of what we can expect if a free trade deal is struck.

This, says Bulloch, is dead wrong. The simple truth of the matter is that a good number of jobs in many heavy industries are going to disappear whether we have a trade deal with the Americans or not.

And Turner's comments aside, the shut-down in Hamilton raises a very important issue that opponents of free trade still haven't addressed. Deal or no deal, how are we going to replace all the jobs that will inevitably leave Canada over the next decade and move to countries like South Korea, India, Mexico and China?

Furthermore, proponents say the potential for growth once business is allowed inside the American market makes free trade a very popular issue. In fact, an unprecedented broad-based support from the business community representing large and small companies is a far cry from the shrieks of protest being registered by the protectionists.

"It's unfortunate," Bulloch says, "that there are still a few people left in this country who are so skeptical of how strong we are as a country and a people."

And the politicians who play on these fears are only making things worse. Why not, instead, brag about our fine record of international leadership in technology and the great Canadian entrepreneurial spirit?

It's important to remember that the negotiations are still underway and no one — including the doomsayers — can predict what the outcome will be. And if we can't reach an agreement, the all important question, "What now?" still has to be answered in the face of rapidly changing international economy.

Opposing this deal won't likely answer that question. And opposing this deal even before it's happened makes no sense at all. — taken from Mainstream Canada nor is experience. Those fellows hoping that their waiting next in line is going to prove fruitful, sometimes lose interest while they wait for a chance to step in and fill the void.

Steady employment is not a fact of life for everyone in this situation, but most of the people have become accustomed to having a sound financial footing, knowing that security, well into retirement, will be their's.

It's gratifying to know that after 30 years or more, just being able to take early retirement has positive effects. It's most noticeable economically. The older, more discerning people have more money and more time, too.

The benefits should make themselves felt in the local business establishments. Statistics, if we're to believe them, show the population is gradually tipping into the 45 years and over category. If that's the case, they must also hold the purse strings.

The majority of people accept changes secure in the knowledge that they'll be OK. For the rest who can't be assured they'll have the same kind of security, they already know those 10 places are filled!

NEIGHBORLY NEWS

by Fred McGuiness
Box 1020, Brandon R7A 6A3

Ollie North for president

It was a car from Montana which pulled in front of me and displayed this alarming message on a bumper sticker. I say alarming for a personal reason. I believe any officer who willfully lies to the representatives of the people should be making big ones into little ones.

However, my purpose today is not to talk about political fantasies, but rather to coax you into a discussion on this man's new-found prominence. It arises from the power and practices of the media in the age of electronics.

It is possible these days — indeed, it happens regularly — that within a day or two an individual can go from total obscurity to the status of full-blown celebrity. Subjects of which you had never previously heard can over a weekend become common place in the household.

Today we have instant communication. A technician can push a button in a radio or TV studio, or in the central office of a news service, and within minutes a message can be flashed into all six million Canadian homes. Because media workers are the world's greatest copycats, they all will pick up any story of high news appeal and give it further amplification.

Oliver North helps me prove my point. So does AIDS. It's not easy to pick up a publication these days that does not have this subject mentioned on the cover. We must average half-a-dozen cancer scares a year. Remember the cholesterol story? It hung around long enough to wreck the per-capita consumption levels of eggs, beef, and whole milk. A few years later and some nutritionists believe that the cholesterol scare was mainly hysteria.

Have you heard enough about pit bull terriers? I know I have. This breed's been around for a century, yet within only a fortnight it became page-one story, coast to coast. Because municipal councillors also practice me-too-ism, some of them today are passing by-laws which are breed-specific, aimed at only this one species. I say this is totally dumb. While controlling vicious dogs obviously makes sense, curbing one breed to the exclusion of all others does not.

Some of these health scares the media have visited upon us help to prove my point that when it comes to a race between information and misinformation, it's strictly no contest. There's a famous old quote (which I can't find now that I need it) about rumor being half-way across the county before truth gets its boots laced.

What's the answer for the reader, the viewer, and the listener? Simple. Keep your salt cellar handy. When some breathless commentator emulates Chicken Little, and hints that the sky is falling, the best thing to do is say uh-huh to yourself, take a few grains of

FOCUS ON: Rayon care

Marilyn Zarecki
Home Economist
Manitoba Agriculture
Beausejour, 268-1411

More and more garments have rayon fibre in them today. Don't despair. Rayon has improved. There is no need to worry about excessive shrinkage or wrinkling, as we did in past years.

Rayon is found in a variety of fabrics, from crisp linen to soft silk or wool. It is used in knit and woven fabrics. Rayon has many "looks".

The laundry treatment you use will depend upon yarn and fabric construction, fibre content, and finish and color application. Rayon combined with a washable fibre will make the fabric more easy care. Finishes can be applied to make the fabric more stable during use and care. If not treated, some rayons may shrink with each wash.

The new rayon fibres can be laundered easily and safely. Read the care labels so that you know how to care for the garment. Some rayons can be washed, but most are dry clean only.

salt, and switch to another channel.

Each year in journalism class I begin events by telling the students that when it comes to hot news and personal opinions, they should never put all their faith in one medium. Read several. Listen to several. Watch a bunch. When you've got the story from a number of sources, then use these different versions as raw material as you reach your own conclusion. To me, this is your only antidote to media hysteria.

If the label says washable, wash by hand or gentle cycle of the machine in lukewarm water. Detergents and other laundry aids such as starches, fabric softeners and water softeners will not damage rayon. Chlorine bleach will reduce the fibre strength.

After washing, smooth the garment and hang on a plastic hanger to dry. While still damp, press with medium to high heat, unless the care label indicates otherwise. Be sure to read the label. After wearing, wrinkles in rayon garments tend to hand out, but many need a touch up with a cool iron.

Rayon fibres are attacked by silverfish and mildew. Be sure to store rayon garments in a dry place.

With a bit of attention to proper care you can look forward to a long life for your rayon garments. Don't let past history prevent you from buying some of the new rayons on the market. You'll be pleased you tried them.

History teacher's collection of bloopers

by Desi Trudell

The following excerpts were compiled from a history teacher's wonderful collection of bloopers to form a history of the world. The students were from Grade 8 through college, and if they haven't become financially set or professionals, their teacher has! The Bible has some interesting characters. In the first book is the Guinnesses — where Adam and Eve are created from the apple tree. God asked Abraham to sacrifice Isaac on Montezuma. Pharaoh forced Hebrew slaves to make bread with leaven, but Moses led them out in the Red Sea so they could learn to make bread without ingredients.

David was a Hebrew king who was skilled at playing the liar. Solomon, one of David's sons had 500 wives and 500 porcupines. But without those Greeks, we wouldn't have much history, because they invented three kinds of columns — the Doric, Corinthian and the Ionic. The Greeks also had myths. A myth is a female moth. There seems to have been a myth about the mother of Achilles. She dipped him in the river Styx until he became invulnerable. Socrates was a famous Greek teacher who went about giving people advice. They killed him. Some say he died from an overdose of wedlock.

We know that the government of Athens was democratic because the people took the law into their own hands. When they fought with the Persians they were outnumbered because the Persians had more men.

At Roman banquets they wore garlic in their hair, and Nero was a cruel tyrant because he tortured people by playing a fiddle.

Inhabitants of ancient Egypt were mummies and they lived in the Sarah Desert. They rode around on camelots. They are pretty famous for inventing irritations and for building the pyramids, which are triangular cubes. Now, the pyramids are a range of mountains between Spain and France somewhere.

In the middle ages, the Magna Carta provided that no free man could be hanged twice for the same offense.

The Renaissance was a time when more people felt the value of their human beings. It was an age of invention and discoveries. Gutenberg invented the Bible and Sir Francis Drake circumnavigated the world in a 100 foot clipper.

The greatest writer of the Renaissance was William Shakespeare, but he never made much money and got famous just because of his plays. He lived at Windsor with his merry wives, writing of comedies, tragedies and errors. Romeo and Juliette are an example of a romantic couplet.

Another writer was Miguel Cervantes who wrote "Donkey Hote". Another writer was John Milton who wrote "Paradise Lost" and then his wife died and he wrote "Paradise Regained".

America was born in the Renaissance. Christopher Columbus cursed the Nina the Pinta and the Santa Fe. The pilgrims were met at Plymouth Rock by Indians and their squabs carrying porpoises on their backs. The winter of 1620 was very hard, as many people died and many babies were born. Captain John Smith was responsible for all this.

The revolutionary war was caused by the English when they put tacks in their tea. General Washington married Martha Curtis and in due time became the father of our country. The constitution allowed the people the right to have bare arms.

Abe Lincoln became the most famous president when his mother died in infancy, and he had to grow up in a log cabin which he built with his own hands. While he was president, he only wore a tall silk hat, he also freed the slaves, and then went to the theatre where he got shot in the seat by one of the actors in the show. The actor was supposed to be John Wilkes Booth an insane actor, which ruined his career.

Meanwhile — in Europe, gravity was invented by Isaac Walton, and this is chiefly noticed in the fall when the apples fall off the trees. Bach was the most famous composer and died from 1750 to the present. Beethoven wrote music, even though he was deaf. It was very loud music.

France was in a very serious state as the French Revolution was accomplished before. During Napoleonic Wars, the crowning heads were trembling in their shoes. Napoleon had bladder problems and was therefore very tense and unrestrained. He really wanted to have children so they could inherit his power but Josephine was a baroness and couldn't have children.

The sun never set on the British Empire because the British Empire is in the east and the sun sets in the west. Queen Victoria was the longest queen. She even sat on a thorn for 63 years, and her death was the final event that ended her reign.

The 19th century was a time of inventions and thoughts. Invention of the steamboat caused a lot of rivers to spring up. Cyrus McCormick invented the McCormick reaper which took the place of a hundred men. Louis Pasteur invented a cure for rabies and Karl Marx became a famous Marx brother.

The First World War was caused by the assassination of the Arch Duck by a surf. It ushered in a new error in the annals of human history.

IN MEMORIAM

MARKERT — In loving memory of our dear husband and father who passed away August 27, 1986. Ever remembered by his wife and family.

THOMAS — In loving memory of our loving father and grandfather, Richard who passed away August 25, 1985.

In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
You suffered much in silence,
You fought so hard to stay,
You faced your task with courage,
But still you kept on fighting,
Until the very end,
God saw you getting tired,
When a cure was not to be,
So he closed his arms around you,
And whispered "Come to me."
You didn't deserve what you went through,
So he took you home to rest,
God's garden must be beautiful,
For he only takes the best,
We will always love and miss you.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by your wife Terry, children and grandchildren.

RECREATION NEWS and VIEWS

by Peggy Boyle 367-2533

I wish to take the first part of this week's column to say a few thank-you's to some area residents.

First of all, I would like to thank the Pine Falls Hospital, Powerview RCMP detachment and the St. Georges Museum for allowing the summer playground participants to tour their respective facilities.

I would also like to thank the local organizations who allowed the playground program to use their facilities. The Powerview Athletic Association - Powerview Arena; the St. Georges Community Club - Community Club and tennis courts; the PFRA - tennis courts; the Pine Falls School and Village Green Playground.

With the cooperation and generosity of these organizations and their members, as well as the local services, the playground program can continue to meet the needs of the local community.

Finally, thanks to Darlene Guetre and Heather Ogg, the two playground leaders who finished working on Friday. The summer ran smoothly because of a job well done by these two people.

Wildlife update

I spotted a black furry little guy galloping across the road in front of my truck the other day. He scrambled into the ditch and then turned around, stood up on his hind legs and sniffed the air. Then ran for the bush.

The bear looked kind of small, so I was looking for mamma bear, but I didn't see anything — needless to say I didn't get out and try to help the little one find the big one!

Oh, the sights you see while living in the rural areas!

Quilting workshop

A contact has been made regarding a quilting workshop, but details have not been completed as of yet.

As soon as they are known, they will appear in this column.

Cross-stitching workshop

This workshop will be held if enough participants can be found. I have heard from one interested person, but need another 10-12 people. If you are interested — contact the rec office today!

THE GARDEN PLOT

by Cathleen Thurston

It is time once again for my annual zucchini recipe column. This is for all you people whose gardens are being overrun with this summer squash. But first a little bit about this member of the gourd family.

Zucchini plants can be started indoors early in the spring or the seeds can be sown directly in the garden when both the weather and the soil are warm. Dig a hole for each plant; add a shovelful of manure to the bottom of the hole and backfill with a 50/50 mixture of peat moss and topsoil.

The seeds should be planted 1" deep and thinned to 16-24" apart. Germination takes 3-12 days. Zucchini plants also grow well in containers.

Like all squash, zucchini are native to the Americas; they come with green, yellow, grey or black fruit. Pick continually for a steady supply of young fruit. Pick when young and tender, about 1½-2 inches in diameter. Watch out for cucumber beetles, squash vine borers and squash bugs.

Chocolate-Zucchini Cake

¼ cup margarine
½ cup vegetable oil
1½ cups white sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups grated zucchini
2½ cups flour
4 tbsp. cocoa
½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. ground cloves
½ cup milk
½ tsp. vinegar or lemon juice
¼ cup chocolate chips
½ cup raisins

Place vinegar (or lemon juice) in a cup; add milk, stir and set aside. Blend together margarine, oil, sugar, eggs and vanilla in a large bowl; add zucchini and stir. In a separate bowl mix flour, cocoa, baking powder, soda, cinnamon and cloves. Mix flour mixture and sour milk alternately into the wet ingredients. Mix in raisins and chocolate chips. Pour into a 9"x13" pan, bake 45-60 minutes at 350°F. Top with your favorite chocolate icing.

Zucchini Muffins

1½ cups sugar
1¼ cups salad oil
4 beaten eggs
2½ cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. vanilla
2 cups grated zucchini
¼-½ cup sunflower seeds.

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and cinnamon; set aside. Combine sugar and eggs; gradually add all, stirring until well blended. Add zucchini and vanilla; stir in sunflower seeds. Fold in dry ingredients until batter is evenly moistened. Don't overmix. Fill lined muffin pans; bake 20-25 minutes at 400°F.

Zucchini can also be cut in half and stuffed with a ground beef, crumb and cheese stuffing. The blossoms can be stuffed, too, for an exciting new taste.

Waterfowl hunting season set for '87

Reduced bag limit for Canada geese

Manitoba Natural Resources Minister Leonard Harapiak has announced bag limit reductions for Canada geese in waterfowl zone 4 (southern Manitoba) for the first three weeks of the 1987 migratory game bird hunting season.

The daily bag limit has been reduced to three Canada geese daily and six in possession for residents and non-residents of Canada from September 21 up to and including October 9. On October 10 the daily bag limit then will be five daily and ten in possession.

Harapiak explained the restriction is necessary to reduce Manitoba's harvest on the "eastern prairie population" of Canada geese. These geese nest along the Hudson Bay lowlands and migrate south through the Interlake into Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri and Arkansas.

Although there are several sub-species of Canada geese, within each of the sub-species there also are distinct and individual populations, like the "eastern prairie population," he said. Over the past several years, the population of these geese has declined to well below a post-hunting season objective of 200,000 established by an international management committee. Also, low goose population in 1987 due to late spring breakup on breeding grounds for all Arctic nesting geese aggravated the situation.

Approximately 80 percent of Manitoba's total Canada goose harvest occurs within waterfowl zone 4. Therefore the restriction applies only to this zone.

The minister also stated that initiatives to reduce harvest on Canada geese reflect co-operative ventures between Manitoba and Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri and Arkansas. The former three US jurisdictions have elected to reduce the number of days within their goose seasons rather than alter bag limits that are now at one Canada goose daily. Arkansas will maintain a total season closure on all Canada goose hunting.

The minister also reported that the 1987 continental breeding populations of mallards and pintails again are below target levels of 7.5 million and 4.7 million, respectively. Under harvest guidelines as established by the North American Waterfowl Management Plan, all Canadian and US jurisdictions are attempting to effect a 25 percent reduction in their respective harvests for the third consecutive year. Manitoba's 1987 duck hunting regulations will thus remain unchanged with a couple of exceptions.

This year, bag limits for ducks will be six daily and twelve in possession for both residents and non-residents of Canada. Last year, non-residents of Canada were allowed only five ducks daily and ten in possession. Of the total daily limit, not more than two ducks may be mallards and not more than two may be canvasbacks or redheads or a combination of the two species. These species' restrictions will end one week earlier than 1986, on October 10 in hunting zones 1 and 2 as compared to October 17 in hunting zones 3 and 4.

The minister also noted the morning-only goose hunting period has been shortened by one week, to move geese out of Manitoba and to reduce Manitoba's harvest on Canada geese. Morning-only duck hunting also will be in effect for non-residents of Canada (excluding game hunting area 36) up to and including October 9. This date coincides with the change from morning-only goose hunting to all day goose hunting.

Harapiak said the Wildlife Branch intends to initiate a complete review of Manitoba's waterfowl season framework prior to June 1988. This would include a review of the existing hunting zone boundaries, designation of additional zones, term regulations, opening dates and shooting hours in consultation with lodges, outfitters, guides and other waterfowl enthusiasts.

The review, he said, will be based largely upon historical harvest patterns of major duck species, user patterns, breeding distributions of ducks and geese and waterfowl migration chronology.

The overall objective of this review will be to identify possible changes to the present regulatory framework that would provide a greater range of management opportunities than presently exist.

return for the evening, or take a chance that one will be close at hand, as the scenery is magnificent.

Bill walks 5 days with 2 days off, for side trips, their own amusement or visiting. It depends on the weather as well, as they are flexible and can (and have) adjusted their schedule and the days progress — to suit themselves.

Marian has been keeping a daily journal of their trip. They give out small Abitibi plaques to the people along the way, and report back of the fine treatment and friendliness of everyone they have been meeting.

While in Ottawa, former residents of Pine Falls who were employed with this paper mill, made sure the Sharpe's visited with them; Ernie and Irene LaFrance, Verna and Duane Salloum, and a welcoming committee by way of their son Kim and Lynn, and their grandchildren Jennifer and Jerry Sharpe, from Pine Falls.

In the Abitibi towns they are naturally expected, met and treated very well.

With all the miles he's walked, Bill's shoes must be ready for a re-tread — but no. He has several pair and changes them frequently. One way to avoid having to break in a new pair! Bill has his pace down pat so the designated 32 km are over by noon. That's when the two of them can get in a little golf, shopping and even took in an Expo's ball game.

While in Ottawa, Marian went to the place where her great-grandfather first settled, near Cornwall (it is actually Williamstown) and to the graveyard where he rests. She noted that Simon Fraser is buried there, also.

Meanwhile, it's been an enjoyable, fast paced at times, relaxing at others, five months on the road. They feel that time has really sped by, and as they near their destination of Grand Falls, Newfoundland, they savour every change in scenery, and greet each day with renewed vigor.

The journal must be bulging with notes and impressions — a perfect way to refresh one's memory for years to come.

Good luck and "good walking".
