Former Natural Resources Minister Leonard Harapiak has informed The Leader that that department will be taking a close look at several matters raised in the series of article appearing recently in The Review and written by reporter Noreen Ostash. The articles deal with reforestation programs and the use of chemicals to kill unwanted growth. See page 17 for full details.

Powerview council deals with routine matters

by Dess Trudell

The Village of Powerview met September 8, and the agenda was short which allowed the council to deal with ongoing problems in a less hurried manner.

Council discussed the pros and cons of seal coat versus paving for the streets of Powerview requiring attention. The seal coat in front of the Village Office is not standing up as well as was hoped, and would not be satisfactory for the residential streets. The council has instructed the clerk to inform the Department of Highways district engineer to begin tests of the unpaved streets to determine costs in preparation for next year. The tests will begin this fall.

Ownership of the controversial access road has finally been legally established. Kelly Sharpe is the owner and has the right to maintain the road to his satisfaction, whether it be tar, oil or gravel.

The Powell's have right of way to gain access to their property beyond, but it does not give them the right to place barricades or block the road in any way. This

Financial matters take up most of school board's time

by Noreen Ostash

Financial matters took up most of the Agassiz School Division meeting on September 15.

Provincial funding will allow the roofing repairs on Powerview School to be completed this year instead of in stages as originally planned. Tenders for the addition to that school have been called and will be reviewed by the Public Schools Finance Board, with the start of work expected late this fall.

Special needs

The board was surprised to learn that there are residual costs of educating a special needs student over and above grants received from the province.

This year a severely handicapped student in the southeastern corner of the division is attending in Hanover School Division and Agassiz has to cover the $2000.00 residual costs over and above the $6000.00 paid by local and provincial monies. In the past, the board assumed that grants were covering all the costs. Special needs students coming into Agassiz from other divisions have paid the same residual cost rates as regular students.

It was noted that the freedom of mobility in the Charter of Rights allows a student to attend school wherever the best education is available and the board is responsible for picking up the costs once the student lives within the division.

The secretary-treasurer will be looking into costs for Agassiz and the board will review their policy.

A proposal for the renovation of Whitemouth and Edward Schreyer School to include areas for educational programs not easily carried out in a regular class, such as physio or occupational therapy, speech language therapy, small group enrichment project work, and personal grooming, was received.

Powerview and Garson Schools will be assessed for the inclusion of similar facilities if the need is found. Grants for the renovations and materials are available from the province. If the board approves the request, renovations will be done early in 1988.

Caution fees

Objection to caution fees being the burden of the middle class and question as to whether or not they can be collected for textbooks were raised by Trustee Barry Bence. The fees, instituted at Lac du Bonnet School this fall, are not collected in any of the other schools. Students were told that they would not receive their textbooks until the caution fee was paid.

Bence said that the poor never pay and the middle class is once again picking up the tab. He wanted clarification as to the validity of the fee when the Deputy Minister of Education has said that textbooks must be provided at no cost to the student.

Trustees Leone Pommer said she objected to the money being deposited from the time the child enters until he leaves school without any interest going to the student.

Other school divisions collect caution fees, some with resistance, such as Mystery Lake at Thompson, and others with no objections. The question seems to be whether or not the fees can be collected for other privileges such as lockers and locks and not textbooks.

Superintendent Mike Czuboka will look into the matter and report back to the board before the next meeting.

New Warehouse/offices for Abitibi-Price

Construction of the Abitibi-Price Warehouse continues towards completion. The scaffolding at the outside corner was erected to begin the sheeting that will enclose the steel framework of the building which will house warehouse paper storage and offices. It is built on a poured foundation and completion date is set for fall. The main floor will house control department and paper machine personnel, with a conference room and engineering department on the mezzanine.

Other money matters at Agassiz

Other money matters

Secretary-treasurer Laverne Cherrey told the board that the business transfer tax would cost the board an additional $49,132.00 if the legislation is passed. It was agreed to send letters of objection to federal and provincial elected officials.

After calculating the savings of $276.29 for services from August 1/86 to July 31/87, the board agreed to switch their banking from the Royal Bank to the South Interlake Credit Union. The Royal Bank service costs were highest, followed by the Bank of Montreal.

The SICU will replace personalized cheques when Agassiz makes the transition.

To reassure any board members who might be apprehensive of credit unions, Cherrey quoted from the Public Schools Act which says that board may deal with either chartered banks or credit unions.

especially among the parents of the students who will be arriving home half an hour later than usual.

The board agreed with the change which will see the return route now run Lac du Bonnet, Powerview and Stead. Because the driver lives at the corner of PTH No. 12 and PR 317, there are no deadhead miles involved.

Odds and ends

Reports on vandalism in the form of broken windows, break-ins and the theft of a VCR at Powerview School were reported. Upgrading of security will be looked into.

Telephones will be installed in the Hutterite schools with the understanding the installations be on party lines. In the past, teachers and administrators have had to rely on the colony telephones for the relaying of messages.

Trustee Richard Rattai asked whether or not that could pose problems of ownership. He was told the Hutterite schools do belong to the colonies, but upgrading is often done under provincial grants. The division could have telephones installed with no difficulties.

Trustees reported that substitutes are complaining that they are not called while others work fairly regularly. They were told that suitability and availability are the criteria the principals usually use, but no one appeared too convinced that the yearly complaints had been addressed.

In response to questions about the advertising policy for substitutes, the superintendent said that advertisements are placed every spring, but anyone interested in applying has only to contact the board office for more information.

Warren speaks . . .

Medivac trips only for rich

If anybody in your family suddenly needs emergency medical treatment out-of-province, thank your lucky stars you live outside Winnipeg. I know city families who have been financially crippled by having to meet the transportation costs to hospitals in Toronto or London, Ont., or Minneapolis.

Despite the fact that many life-saving medical techniques are only available outside Manitoba, one of medicare's transportation co-ordinators, Jean Paterson, makes it abundantly clear when she sends out bills for transportation costs:

"Trips outside Manitoba are not an insured service under the Manitoba Health Services Commission of the Lifeflight Program."

That had news accompanied a demand notice to the Earl Will family of Carroll, Man., earlier this year. The bill was for a staggering $6,297.56.

They had been forced to fly their son, Bradley, from Souris to Toronto on March 31. Worse still, it was the second such trip Brad has had to make over the past year.

The Wills were fortunate they lived in a small caring community. People rallied around. Friends and neighbours ran a fund-raising social; people who worked with Brad's father, Earl, did a whip-round.

All this is not to say that some families in Winnipeg, facing the same predicament, do not get some help from people within their own community.

But Winnipeg is becoming more and more like a larger urban centre where some don't even know their neighbor's name, let alone being able to ask for donations to help them out of a hole.

Thus, when city folk scoff at living in a smaller town where "everybody knows everybody else's business," they probably haven't thought about this type of medical emergency. I'll lay even money that everyone reading this column knows of at least one family in this, or a neighbouring community, that has been assisted in a similar emergency.

But there is an even larger problem than your place of residence that is going to have to be faced by Manitoba's new minister of health:

Simply put, under the current medicare system which provincial politicians are quick to assure us is the "best in the world", we have a law for the rich and a law for the poor when it comes to these emergency trips out-of-province.

Mrs. Will told me in an interview earlier this month, her family "would have sold our souls" to get Bradley to Toronto. But just imagine what would have happened if they literally could not have afforded that $6,297.56 bill...or what if their friends and neighbours had not been ready to help?

Literally, my friends, Bradley would be dead.

***

I say it is time for the Manitoba Health Services Commission and the provincial government to cover transportation costs for all citizens (regardless of the size of their bank account, or lack of) who are forced to go elsewhere because life-saving medical treatment is not available in this province.

Consider:

Manitoba taxpayers shell out between $700,000 and $800,000 per year transporting criminals to and from court appearances, but we cannot afford to airlift the sick. Where are the government's priorities?

If you agree, let Howard P. know. And don't just say you'll write that letter. Do it now — along with a copy of this newspaper.

Stage treats for all appetites

by Dwayne Dueck

At approximately 8:45 this morning the sun passed to the southern side of the equator bringing about the end of summer, the beginning of another fall; another year new. It's the time of year when we start putting away our swimsuits and golf clubs to be replaced by skates and curling brooms; we replenish our wood-piles to fortify ourselves against another harsh Manitoba winter; we tune into our favorite TV shows' new seasons.

Our social commitment to sport and drama is without equal. This fall the MTC touring show visiting Pine Falls is a combination of the two. Life After Hockey is a show on the move — the actor presents his monologue on roller skates. He skates from one end of the stage to the other, shooting a puck into nets at both ends. Anyone who dreamed of NHL stardom while young can't help but be caught up in this funny/dramatic piece of Canadian food for thought.

This year our resident thespians promise to serve another interesting theatrical menu to audiences of all ages. The Pine Falls Drama Club will be joining forces with the Manitou Rapids Arts Council to bring school kids in the area a brand new show entitled Hands Up. This production, which will tour several different schools in our region, is presented in the kazinoko style — which is creating characters using hands, sticks and plastic tubing. The entire show is choreographed to music and consists of a series of vignettes that children will find delightful.

Another local production this season will be the Pine Falls Drama Club's production of the comedy/farce, Love by the Bolt, George Feydeau's fast paced play about an unfaithful husband's attempts to carry on an affair behind his suspicious wife's back. Three great reasons to take a look and support local theatre efforts this year.

M.T.C. touring show Life After Hockey, November 19, 1987 at 7:30 p.m.

Pine Falls Drama Club and Manitou Rapids Arts Council Hands Up, December 16 and 17, 1987, school hours.

THE BOOK NOOK

by Mona Bossi

The other day I came across a small item written by students for a library handbook — so here goes: Your Library Bill of Rights.

1. Contrary to popular belief, we don't discourage conversation in the library — just leave your megaphones outside!
2. If you need popcorn, Cokes, candy, sandwiches, or any other staffs of life while you are studying — use the snack bar — we're trying to keep down the ants.
3. You can check out anything we've got that circulates — just get it in on time. If you don't, we can always use the money (.4¢ per day per book).
4. If someone refuses to let you study in peace, tell a librarian. They keep the gorilla locked up in the back for just such occasions.
5. This is a library — a library that is — so...feel free! But don't go ape (leave that to the gorilla in the back — it's his bag).

Thank you.

Meanwhile, back at the library, we have been invaded by armies of books, one hundred French books arrived from Public Library Services, a new block of adult fiction from the main library in Lac du Bonnet plus an assortment of new and donated teen and children's books. So drop in and browse around.

Our McPhee workshop instructor Linda Schroeder will be presenting a "slippers and mittens" course on Tuesday, September 29 from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. The registration fee is $5.00 and materials are extra. Just bring a pair of good scissors, pins and sewing notions. Please call the library at 8443 as there are only a couple of places left.

The Friends of the Library will be presenting their fourth annual supper of French - Canadian cuisine on Saturday, October 3 in St. Georges Parish Hall. Live entertainment by the Harmonicats of Selkirk will take place at 4:30 p.m. and supper will be served at 5:30 p.m. Tickets are available at St. Georges Post Office, Fran's Accounting and Library Allard.

McPhee fashion show at the Birchwood Inn on Saturday, October 4 will inspire new ideas for further workshops at the library now that we have our own resident instructor. For more information call Peggy Boyle at 2533 or the library at 8443.

Finally, with the season of gifts and presents just around the corner, we're having a come-and-go share ideas session every Monday evening between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. in the library reading room. Here's a great chance to share and learn new craft ideas at no charge so drop by and get creative.

Stop! Don't touch those unwanted stickers stuck on your new appliance. Do not try any traditional methods until you have checked out the new appliance finishes on the market.

Question: Should you use a strong solvent such as nail polish remover to remove a sticker from the front of your new appliance?

Answer: No! You might get away with using it on an older model appliance with the tradi-

Here's a paper that wants our immigration door "Closed but not locked".

There's a related subject which is pursued by the Scratching River Post of Morris; multi-culturalism. I'm with this editor when he deplors the fact that we now have a full-fledged department of government involved in little more than throwing bundles of money at full-time executives who work for ethnic societies.

The Morris opinion has nothing but praise for those immigrants who arrived in earlier days, and who, "...managed to take care of themselves and become the outstanding citizens they are today..." And there's more sympathy for new arrivals in the Pembina Times of Morden. "...next time somebody rants and raves about more Asian refugees arriving at our shores, inquire about their own family history. You'll probably find their ancestors arrived here under the same circumstances."

tional porcelain enamel finish. Wilda Saunders, who works with an appliance company, suggested that with these older machines, you could "treat them like a porcelain pot — but things have changed". Wilda says today, your new appliance must be treated "like a fine dish". Nothing stronger than a mild dish soap and warm water solution must be used.

The reason: With many of today's appliances, you are often dealing with an acrylic finish now. Acrylics are a plastic-like finish and will be dissolved by strong solvents. So, the benefits of a bright shiny finish or spot and scratch resistance are lost.

The solution: Soak the sticker well to help lift the paper — use a damp cloth or spray bottle. Once the paper is removed, to lift the stubborn glue remaining, rub on some vegetable cooking oil. This will remove the glue (or gum if there happens to be an accident with the chewing gum). A clean up job with warm, sudsy water will take care of the oil residue and leave your appliance shining.

Other no no's: Never use paper towels to wipe your appliances. Wilda suggested that within a year of continued use, the scratches caused by paper towels is very visible. Use a soft cotton or flannel cloth.

Never use a window cleaner product to clean the surfaces or the inside parts. Most window cleaners contain ammonia. Ammonia will cause a deterioration of your gaskets (an expensive repair job). The gaskets will become brittle, will wear and crack. By using clear water or mild detergents on the gaskets, they should last a long, long time.

For odors inside refrigerators, use only vinegar, lemon juice or baking soda. Using anything stronger for a prolonged period will eventually break down the plastics and rubber.

Boat load of 'refugees' offended prairie spirit

For close to a couple of months now we've had the refugee story on page one. That last boat-load raised such a storm of protest that our MPs were recalled just to debate this subject and rewrite a few of our laws.

Comments abound. If I were to make a judgement in general, I'd say that that boat-load offended the prairie spirit of fair play. The editorials so far are on the same general theme: "send 'em back...let them apply through the standard channels as is done by every other would-be Canadian."

There's a typical example in the Lac du Bonnet Leader. "It just isn't right that we should accept these East Indians who are dropped off on our doorstep by unscrupulous entrepreneurs who make large profits in delivering their human cargo..."

Long before PM Mulroney suggested the recall of parliament, the Valley Leader of Carman was urging that this be done in order to plug the loophole through which these Asians gained admittance.

That boat-load unwittingly hurt the position of all future refugees by bringing out the worst in some mean-spirited Canadians. Those who belong to the group called "Citizens for Foreign Aid Reform Inc.", based in Toronto, are flooding the mails with hate stuff urging that all foreign aid be withdrawn. They want Toronto declared a "refugee-free zone".

We have editors wondering what those refugees have done to our national reputation. The Herbert Herald says it's not surprised when people risk their lives just to get here; we have a world-wide reputation as "a harbor for those who are persecuted in other lands". Still, we shouldn't have our hospitality abused, according to the Nipawin Journal. "Canada's soft, hand-wringing approach to immigration control does nothing to inspire pride among its citizens, nor confidence in its integrity."

The Star and Times of Deloraine is one paper that questions the motivation of the Mulroney government in recalling parliament. "The worst possible motivation — irrational public fear, exploited in a gamble for political gain — leads to a bad policy". Opposing this is the Altona Echo. "Politicking aside, the federal government has made the right decision to recall parliament...to consider new regulations to stem the tide of illegal aliens entering Canada."

Daytime Long Distance Rates Now

Now an even better value from MTS.

If you're in business, you probably already depend on long distance - the fast, economical and personal way to operate. Now, daytime rate reductions from your Manitoba Telephone System make long distance an even better value!

Now when you dial direct outside of Manitoba, to just about anywhere in Canada, between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., Monday to Saturday, you'll save from 3% to 14% off the old rate. The further you call, the more you save - and when you're in business, savings like these can really add up!

EXAMPLES	OLD RATE	REDUCED RATE
Direct daytime dial Winnipeg to Toronto (5 minute call)	$5.00	$4.60
Direct daytime dial Winnipeg to Halifax (5 minute call)	$5.35	$4.80

Reduced rates mean you can get all the business benefits of long distance even more often... for less! Long distance can help you attract new customers, enhance customer service, reduce overhead, cut sales costs, test markets, improve your delivery flow and increase market share and size. Customers, prospects, branch offices, dealers and field personnel are only an affordable phone call away.

Best of all, reduced daytime long distance rates aren't just for business. Now you can direct dial to friends and family outside of Manitoba, just about anywhere in Canada, during the day - when it's most convenient - and save 3% to 14% too!

Daytime long distance... now an even better value from MTS!

New daytime long distance rates are in effect now 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Saturday.

*Reductions do not apply on calls made within Manitoba or to destinations outside the province less than 60 miles from point of origin.

The Sharpe lookout

by Dess Trudell

The Review received an informative letter accompanied by a picture of one of the events during Bill and Marion's trip east. It is of a group of employees and retirees with Bill and Marion, standing in front of the Abitibi-Price mill in Beupre, Quebec. Bill had planted the white spruce in the foreground to commemorate the "Forests for our Future" walk. A bronze plaque will be placed beside the tree to make the occasion.

Bill's reply to the event was, "I'll return in 50 years to see how it has grown."

The Sharpe's are having a wonderful experience, enjoying visiting family and renewing old acquaintances, many of whom are former residents of Pine Falls.

The Sharpe's are now in Nova Scotia, and will ferry across to Newfoundland on September 30. Their son, Kelly, who is employed at the Pine Falls Abitibi-Price paper mill, will join them at Steffenville. Kelly will accompany his parents on the last leg of the trip, walking to Grand Falls, which will end in the month of October.

Things gradually return to normal at Gullford household

After spending almost a year in St. Boniface Hospital recovering from extensive surgery for wounds he received in March 1986, Constable Reg Gullford is reported to be making much progress.

Reg and wife Lori are now living in their home in Buchan, Newfoundland, with two year old daughter Courtney.

As of Friday, September 18 Reg had completed his convalescing and therapy at the rehabilitation hospital in Newfoundland and has special two hour physiotherapy sessions at his home each day.

Although most of his time is still spent in a wheelchair he has made slow painful progress to the use of crutches as of one week ago. Reports of Reg's health are regular to his friends and co-workers of Powerview detachment. He had gained weight and his spirits have improved being in his own home among family.

Lori nurses part-time at the general hospital there so things are gradually returning to normal.

We wish them much happiness and that Reg will soon be able to put that tragedy behind him.

Our Dear Dad

This here is a story about our dear Dad.

Please, please, please! Don't get mad!

Born in the city in 1929, Kenny was the last kid in line. His sister and his brother, Loved him like no other, His carriage they pushed across busy streets,

From one to the other! In school Ken was not the teacher's pet,

Into all kinds of trouble, He usually did get!

Always the spotlight he did hog, He even made the pages of a Christmas catalogue!

His younger years they quickly passed, And finally "IT" came at last!

In '47, the big wide world calls, Ken decided to try his luck, In the town of Pine Falls!

In '48, a pretty girl Ken chanced to meet, And two years later, he swept Frances off her feet!

Soon followed by four "wonderful" daughters, To make their lives complete!

The years that followed passed quickly, Ken built a nice big home, And he took his family camping, Through 30 states they did roam!

His holidays were filled, With hunting, travelling, fishing, And a little bit of wishing, For more time to do these things!

Well now you can see, Ken must have decided to stay, When he came to Pine Falls on that long ago day,

'Cause he's worked at Abitibi, 40 years to this day!

The years of work are passed, Dad, You can finally take a rest!

Ha! Ha! Fooled you! With all the many things, Mom has planned for you to do, You'll be lucky is you get a break,

Before the year 2002! Best wishes Dad and Mom, for a wonderful, fun-filled retirement!

Love, Your four "wonderful" daughters, Sharon, Brenda, Karen, Nancy and families

P.S. Have a very happy birthday today, Mom!

Powerview council meets

was hopefully settled to both parties satisfaction.

The letter from the Municipal Board was discussed. It was in regard to relocation of the Powerview Lagoon. The Village has never received anything concrete from any of the departments contracted in this regard, so far.

At the last council meeting, M.L.A. Clarence Baker met with the council to see what he could do to help find out what the hold up was, and he was to send along his findings. Council is still waiting. They now feel a meeting with Ministers of Agriculture and Municipal Affairs is their next move.

Relocation of the lagoon has been of prime importance and council wants to ensure it receives the proper attention. They will follow through with their request to a meeting with the necessary departments and made a presentation re: the lagoon.

I was talking to my mother the other evening (and doing my part to support MTS) and we began discussing Christmas — like when I would be coming home, etc. Then she said something that really caught me off guard — she said she was getting excited too because she had already picked out my Christmas present and bought it!

I was really stunned — primarily because I haven't even thought too seriously about Halloween yet!

Have you thought about Christmas yet? How about Halloween? Okay how about what you might be having for dinner tonight?

On with the news!

Praises and hugs will do it

Children will live up, or down, to their parents' expectations of them. If you treat your children to be lovable and honorable they will break their necks to be just that.

When they hear they are no good from their parents, they believe it, and will fulfill the prophecy.

Love is one of the strongest forces in the world, and one of the few things you can give away and still get it back — more than ever.

Try a one month experiment if your children's behaviour is a problem. The way parents interact causes much of this. When a parent is overly critical the children become negative by habit.

Refrain from negative comments — bite your tongue if necessary — and offer a compliment pointing out their good qualities. Force yourself. It won't be easy. Children may be stiff and unapproachable at first, but they are human and react in kind.

Your relationship with your children can turn around and you may find out you really like each other. Your enjoyment of each other's company will go beyond childhood and teen years, into adulthood.

Who is more important to you? Listening and talking together becomes second nature as friendship grows. Never let an opportunity pass to hug your children — it lets them know you love them.

The greatest compliment is hearing a child say, "My dad (mom) is my best friend."

Former Resources Minister concerned over breakdown in system

by Noreen Ostash

Former Natural Resources Minister Leonard Harapiak has informed The Leader that he is looking into several matters arising out of the series of articles on reforestation which appeared in this paper in the past three weeks.

Harapiak said that he is particularly concerned about the breakdown in the system which contains review committees which are to look into the workings of government departments. He also wants to know more about the Forestry Branch's practice of writing its own work permits.

At the time of contact, the minister had not read the third and final article in the series. He said that he would make the results of his investigations known to The Leader.

Tom Owen, Deputy Minister of the Environment, told The Leader that the province has had reservations about the use of Velpar, a slow release chemical used in reforestation programs. Because it approved for conifer release by Agriculture Canada, the province does not have the authority to ban its use by the private sector, but Manfor and Abitibi-Price have agreed not to use it. Owen says it will not be used by provincial departments in Manitoba in the future.

In response to questions about following up the field results of chemical such as Velpar, Owen said that the trend has been to put all the emphasis on the front end. Chemical companies do their research before the chemical is registered for use. In the case of Velpar, the research was done in the warmer southern climates. Field results in Canada were different. He said it is up to the user to report anything which might merit further investigation.

The new Environment Act will ensure that all programs are thoroughly reviewed prior to work being started. Owen said that ad hoc committees are not governed by legislation. Under the new act input will be required from all government departments.

Jeff Munro, provincial forest manager of the Canada-

Manitoba forest renewal agreement, returned a call placed to the Deputy Minister of Natural Resources office. He said that the purpose of the provincial forests is to provide a source of timber for future users and that is what the Forestry Branch is doing. He was surprised to hear questions about the present practices. As for the use of Velpar, he said that it had been used in some experimental work in the Agassiz. He said there was no problem with that as it is approved for that use by the federal government.

Munro said that it is impossible to knock back all the hardwoods by the use of Vision (Roundup) or Velpar. The stands being sprayed were originally mixed stands and they will be again. The department is just speeding up the turnover to predominately soft-wood stands.

Concerns about wildlife were brushed aside with the statement that the stands had been and still would be mixed. Once the spraying programs were completed, the hardwoods would return.

He did say that the market for hardwoods is changing, but it has not reached the point where all the hardwoods growing in the provincial forest can be used. When asked how they could make those decisions based on a 60 year turn around for the forest product, he went back to his earlier claim that the department is ensuring the resource for the future.

Velpar, a slow release chemical for hardwood control in reforestation projects has left the patches on which it was sprayed clear of growth for up to four years. Controversy over the use of the chemical responsible for the bare patch in the foreground has resulted in its not being used in Manitoba.

Philip Lacharity shows off an unusually large Hungarian squash he grew. It weighed 145 pounds and will go on display at Clark's Corner until Hallowe'en when it becomes a Jack-o-lantern.

Giant Hungarian squash requires extraordinary amount of water

by Dess Trudell

Philip Lacharity has always had a green thumb, and over the year many of his friends have been the recipient of his bountiful gardens.

This giant Hungarian squash is one of the unusual types he has grown, and although they do grow up to 500 pounds with proper watering and trimming, this one hit the scales at 145 pounds. This was just grown naturally, without any pampering.

Philip says he has grown squash for years, and grew this particular type from seed he purchased from the Dominion Seed House. He hand pollinates these giants so they are not a cross. He will use the seed from this one for planting next year. He will also be keeping a close eye on the plants next year, too, as his garden will be at the Chateaugay home where he now resides.

They need an extraordinary amount of water, to attain the giant sizes, from 3-5 gallons of water a day once they start to form.

"A 400 pounder is fairly common down east," he said. "They have a better growing climate. I'll have this one on display at Clarke's Corner until Hallowe'en, then someone will make it into a Jack-o-Lantern."

"I have been growing these things for years. Next year I want to see just how big I can get one to grow with regular attention. See what happens," he said.

Sure will make a lot of pies!

Eastman Juried Art Show opens in Lac du Bonnet

by Noreen Ostash

The eighth annual Eastman Juried Art Show got underway Friday evening when Assistant Deputy Minister for Cultural Affairs, Elizabeth Carriere and Lac du Bonnet Deputy Mayor Peter Unfried cut the ribbon to allow anxious guests to feast their eyes on this year's entries.

Every art show has its own character and this one is no exception. Visual arts and photography entries are up while the fibre arts and crafts entries are down. With 177 entries to view, the public have been enjoying the skill, creativity and variety of the works on display.

Local carver, photographer and artist Brent Lees' canvas-carving was the people's choice. He won a first prize ribbon for his carving and an honorable mention for a photo of an albino lady slipper, a rare find for botanist and photographer alike. Lees put on a carving display for visitors, showing how one of his birds gets from the raw block of wood to the finished product.

Folk Folk, a singing group from Pinawa, and Esme Boone and her harp provided the musical background for the opening. Guests wandered through the displays returning to the sitting area to enjoy the music and exchange their impression of the works on display.

While the show includes all of eastern Manitoba, most of the entries this year were from Pine Falls - Powerview, Lac du Bonnet and Pinawa. Next year the show will move south of the Trans-Canada Highway to Steinbach. Artists from here will be able to enter their works, but distance is often a factor in their choosing not to. The area is not large enough to accommodate two shows so the trend is to enter only when the show is in the same area.

This year three professional artists in the area — Jim Jordan, Robert Kost and Sheldon Sveinsson have several of their paintings on display for people to enjoy.

This year's award winners are:

Visual Arts I: 1. Leslie White; 2. Choon Shim; 3. Brenda Mackenzie.

Visual Arts II: 1. Gerry Lavery; 2. Hans Miller (Powerview); 3. Leslie White.

Pottery: 1. Brent Lees; 2. Metro Dmytriw; 3. Michael Cooper (Pine Falls).

Crafts: 1. Warwick Laurence (Pinawa); 2. Karl Sabanski (Powerview); 3. Marilyn Berry (Pinawa).

Fibre: 1. Dorothy Williamson (Pineview); 2. Dorothy Williamson (Pineview); 3. Sherry Sveinsson.

Photography: 1. Bill Murray; 2. Derek Owen; 3. Warwick Laurence.
