Thibedeau innaugurated as Powerview mayor

by Marlene Watson
Frank Thibedeau will assume the Village of Powerview Mayor's position over the next three years, following his inauguration at the municipal office on Tuesday, November 7.
The new council met informally at Allan Tardiff's home shortly after the election results were announced, to discuss the position of mayor. Several people were contacted by phone with Frank Thibedeau the only person allowing his name to stand for the mayor's seat.
After much discussion, the new council unanimously agreed to appoint Thibedeau as the town mayor.
Born in Pine Falls and spending most of his life in the area, Thibedeau moved to Powerview in 1962 when he purchased the Pineview Shell, a business he operated until 1978.
While living in Powerview, Thibedeau served as Agassiz School Board Trustee for nine years, leaving Powerview in 1983, and returning in 1988. "I enjoyed living in Powerview and I've come back simply because I love the area. I feel that it is a good village to live in, the tax base is excellent and we can build on it.

"I feel that I can lend leadership to the new council and I have the time for it. I have no axe to grind with anything, just improve on certain areas that's all," said Thibedeau.

While presently retired, Thibedeau serves as a trustee on the Notre Dame du Laus church board, is presently the deputy grand knight with the Knights of Columbus, and curls in the men's league.

New regulations for peat smoke control

by Marlene Watson
The province of Manitoba has incorporated new regulations into the Environment Act that would allow the Department of Natural Resources to have greater control over the problem of peat smoke.
The most sensitive area of Manitoba, known as the "peat smoke control zone," will have strict rules for landowners wanting to start a peat land development fire.
The development fire can only be started under the authority of a Natural Resources permit and may be cancelled or suspended at any time. Once cancelled, if the permit holder does not comply with the order, Natural Resources has the authority to enter upon the land and extinguish the fire.

This control zone covers a distance between the eastern boundary of provincial trunk highway 59 and the Ontario border and north from the United States border to the

RCMP initiates advisory committee

by Marlene Watson
The RCMP in Powerview, headed by Cst. Brian Jack, have initiated proceedings to establish a community advisory committee that will allow the public to air concerns regarding police or the community as a whole.
The communities of Pine Falls, Powerview and the LGD of Alexander have been targeted to form the committee with Cst. Jack attending meetings to address public concerns brought forward.

Jack says the idea has been tried in the community of Thompson with good results, and also in Lac du Bonnet, "the aim of this project is to provide a greater awareness of public concern and to provide the means to hear public opinions in a non-adversarial setting."
The committee will have an election of officers and hold public meetings every few months to address concerns. "We are hoping for a good cross cultural representation on the committee," said Jack.

The first public meeting is set for 7:00 p.m. December 6 at the RCMP station, with future meetings ideally held at various community buildings by decision of the newly formed committee.
It is the aim of the RCMP to get the group started, but once formed, the committee will run itself, said Jack.

P.F. committee discusses Powerview water supply

by Marlene Watson
The Pine Falls Town Advisory Committee met again with part of the evening's discussion centered on Abitibi's water treatment plant and the water supply agreement with the Village of Powerview.
The present water supply agreement of 200,000 gallons per day will expire by May 1, 1991. At present the Village consumes 75,000 gallons per day with a projected usage of 77,000 gallons per day by the year 1991.

The committee members agreed that the new water supply agreement will be reduced, but did not tentatively set an amount.
No snow removal for businesses
All businesses in Pine Falls will be notified that Abitibi will no longer be providing free snow removal services. Although Abitibi had set a precedent by providing this service in the past, when the town committee learned that some businesses were getting snow removal and some were not, they agreed that the rule should be uniform for all.

Much discussion ensued about The Rock area of Pine Falls with committee members agreeing to examine the ways and means of improving the main road and lighting.

Maskwa creates new opportunities for CWY participants

Hello, my name is Kellianne Lewis. Hello, my name is Leila Chouk. We are two of the Canada World Youth participants in the Pine Falls areas. Leila lives in Mahdia, Tunisia, and I, Kellianne live in Windsor, Nova Scotia. We are presently living with our host family Ken and Jill Phillips in their home at the Maskwa Project.

The Maskwa Project is a year round owner operated hotel. It is a rustic, yet very comfortable retreat centre on the beautiful Maskwa River, for those who appreciate the beauty and harmony of nature. The Maskwa Project centers around appropriate technology. The efforts put into appropriate technology help the project to enhance rather than inhibit its natural surroundings. This provides an atmosphere rich in recreation and relaxation opportunities.

Some of the recreational activities to enjoy at Maskwa are canoeing, cross-country skiing, snowshoeing, hiking, volleyball, swimming, fishing, campfires, the sauna and many more. The natural surroundings of Maskwa create endless opportunities for those who want to learn and have fun.

Maskwa is a site for alternative energy sources. In this article, Leila and I will explain what the Maskwa Project is basically all about. We have some experience with appropriate technology, because our work placement is at Maskwa.

To start our article off, we would like to use a quote from Alastair Gillespie, the former Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources. The quote is: "The good old days of cheap fuels are gone forever". We can understand this quote by analyzing the energy joyride, which was the brief delusion of man that the supply of cheap fuel was limitless. Luckily, there are individuals who are working towards alternate energy sources. Some of these sources at Maskwa are wind power, solar energy and wood. There are several reasons for alternate energy sources. One reason is for conservation and another is for saving money. But, we think that one of the most important is for ecological considerations so as not to pollute the earth, air and oceans from the ever growing use of oil and coal.

We will now give a list of some examples of Maskwa's appropriate technology: solar heated water in the bathhouse, low flush toilets, wind power wood for heating, the campsite pile.

The bathhouse at Maskwa has two solar panels on the outside and are the source for the hot water. Within the solar collector panels is a heat transfer loop which circulates an antifreeze liquid through the panels and the heat exchange coil. Heat picked up by the fluid at the collectors is given off at the coil to warm the water in the storage tank. Therefore in the end producing hot water.

The bathhouse at Maskwa also uses the river water. This water contains no chemicals and is very good for the environment. An example of water conservation at Maskwa is the aspect of low flush toilets. This type of toilet uses only one litre of water per flush in comparison with normal everyday toilets which use up to twenty-five litres of water per flush.

One very important aspect at Maskwa is that they try to recycle and cut down on waste. Ken and Jill have a compost pile. Just a compost pile can eliminate up to twenty-five percent of household waste. Composting is the biological decomposition of organic wastes. It is the breakdown of food and garden wastes into a soil condition. By composting one adds nutrients to the soil and improves the water holding capacity, aeration and creates a better surrounding for the plants.

Almost any organic substance is suitable for the compost. It is not advisable to put fats or meat and bones in the compost because fat doesn't break down very well and the meat and bones may attract unwanted animals.

Ken and Jill use wood heat. Because Maskwa is located in the woods, there is plenty of firewood surrounding them. On the average, a tree with a diameter of 12 to 14 inches will yield about 1/4 cord of wood. With this in mind, Ken and Jill stock the wood sheds full of firewood to supply them throughout the winter. Burning wood is a positive form of heating because wood is a renewable resource.

Maskwa also has a wind generator. The generator is a self supporting tower. This type of tower must have an adequate foundation — usually concrete, but Maskwa's tower is situated on a large surface of granite rock. The wind generator at Maskwa is a system that is able to supply limited power for the whole Maskwa Project. A bank of batteries is installed in an area to store excess power that the wind plant generates. The whole operation of the tower is automatic, when the wind blows the system generates power. Maskwa strives to continue to search for solutions to inappropriate technologies.

Living at the Maskwa Project has been a new experience for me and my counterpart Leila.

For me, (Kelli), living here at Maskwa and with nature is very relaxing. I love to get up in the morning and go down by the river and listen to the birds. I love to go out on the river in the canoes, and feel the wildlife around me. I have always been involved with nature. I've adapted quite well to Maskwa and I am extremely happy here. But there were a few things that were new to me. These range from things such as mice in my garden as well as hearing the wolves howl at night. But luckily we have a faithful cat named Ralph, who is in the process of solving one of the problems. As for the wolves, I can live with them as long as my counterpart continues to walk me to the bathhouse each night when darkness falls upon us.

These few things are not even near enough to dampen my spirits while living here. I feel like Maskwa is my home and Ken and Jill Phillips are great host parents. The four of us have a fabulous relationship and it means a lot to me to know that Ken and Jill are so interested and involved with our Canada World Youth activities. I am looking forward to when I come back from Tunisia to stay at Maskwa with Ken and Jill for four or five days. During this time, I will try and share my experiences with them.

Leila feels that Maskwa is a new experience for her. She feels like she is living a new life but this isn't a problem with her. She is always eager to learn new things. She loves nature and enjoys canoeing and taking a sauna. She enjoys the sauna here at Maskwa because in Tunisia, they have similar things, but they are called Hamem. This helps to make Leila feel more at home. The whole idea of appropriate technology is a new experience for Leila. Leila told me she feels our host family (Jill and Ken Phillips) has a very good atmosphere and she is very happy at Maskwa.

For our work project Leila and I are both trying new things. We chop wood, and hammer nails, and we find this is a great experience. We hope to learn many things from living at Maskwa, it is a great place to expand our horizons. We would also like to announce that the date for the Canada World Youth culture show is set for November 18, 1989. We are extending invitations to anyone who would like to come. All are welcome. (Further information to follow).

Pine Falls Library hosts open house

by Marlene Watson
Volunteer librarians hosted an open house for community residents to give them the opportunity to view the extensive renovations and examine the new book arrivals at the Pine Falls Library.

An area of the Pine Falls school that was once two classrooms with a large hallway between them, has been utilized for the past few years as the school and public library. The public library was originally situated in downtown Pine Falls where the sports shop is today.

In October 1988, Abitibi-Price Inc. of Canada issued a literacy grant cheque of $27,000 to the Pine Falls Library, and that money was immediately used for renovations and shelving ($18,000), the purchase of new books ($5,000), and the purchase of a computer ($4,500). Monies will also be used to set up a scholarship for literacy.

Renovations included the tearing down of the two hallway walls that separated the old classrooms, making the library one large room with plenty of reading space.

A list of just a few of the many new books include the novel Jackie O. John LeCarre's Russia House, Richard's and Danielle Steele's latest books, and John Irving's A Prayer for Owen Meany. The library also has several books on travel, garden, and interior design.

An extensive magazine display has been set up, with such new arrivals as House and Garden, European Travel and Life, Canadian Living, Equinox, Harrowsmith, and a Canadian version of House and Garden.

New public library hours have been announced, including daily Monday to Friday hours, with Joyce Robinson employed by the school from 9:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and volunteer librarians available from 1:00-3:00 p.m. The library will also continue to be open to the public two evenings a week, Monday and Thursday from 7:00-8:00 p.m.

The organizers of the open house were pleased with the turnout and announced that eight new members joined the library as a result. New arrivals in books were on display at the four reading tables, and coffee and dainties were offered.

The library in Pine Falls is funded by Abitibi-Price through the school board, and has received fundraising donations from the home and school committee. With the utilization of volunteer librarians the library is able to offer free memberships to any persons of any age who wish to use it.

Pine Falls Library bulletin

The members of the Library Committee were pleased with the turn-out at the recent Open House. Now that Halloween is past, "it's beginning to look a lot like Christmas!"

There is still time to make decorations and gifts, so this week we have a special display at the Pine Falls Library of such books as Gorgeous Christmas Crafts from Canadian Living, and The Spirit of Christmas, from Leisurecrafts. We also have several special magazines which feature Christmas crafts and decorations. The November issue of Canadian Living magazine has been received, chock full of ideas for Christmas and Christmas baking and entertaining. Drop in and see for yourself!

With the co-operation of the school librarian, Mrs. Joyce Robinson, and the volunteers at the school, to make it more convenient for members who usually come into Pine Falls during the day, books may be exchanged from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. in the afternoon. The usual adult library hours continue to apply, namely 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays.

Municipal Elections: Your chance to help

Let's turn it around this week and instead of provincial politicians based in Winnipeg leading in on rural folk, I'm asking for your assistance to help get the inside-the-Perimeter elected officials back in stride.

We've all just gone through the local elections — school boards, RMs, city, town and village councils, etc., etc.

Here, in Winnipeg, 11 people filed nominating papers seeking to become mayor of the city.

Despite the circus in town, it was overshadowed by the municipal elections in Calgary, Alta., where an incredible 19 people sought the mayor's chair, including James Pierce Carleton (Jimmy The Con), a man who has spent more time behind bars in this country than any other living Canadian and a man whom, incidentally, once published a community newspaper in Portage la Prairie.

Back to Winnipeg: Eleven people, all of them men, filed nomination papers. Even the best odds-on favorite at Assiniboia Downs this past summer was not the shoo-in that Mayor Bill Norrie proved to be.

But strange things happened in the campaign. That's where I think your input would be of assistance.

To run for mayor of the city of Winnipeg, you do NOT need a financial deposit, just 35 signatures.

Obviously that leads to so-called nuisance

Remembrance Day message from the Lieutenant-Governor

The following message was issued by Lieutenant-Governor George Johnson in observance of Remembrance Day, November 11, 1989:

On the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918, the guns of the first world war were stilled. Ever since that war came to an end, this day has been set aside across this nation to remember with gratitude the war service of our uniformed men and women, and to honor the memory of those who fought and died.

They willingly put their future on the line for Canada and freedom. Those who fought and died did so to safeguard a way of life that was dear to them and to us.

So when we remember them, at cenotaphs and services around the country, we do so with thanksgiving for their courage, for their devotion to Canada and to their loved ones and generations yet unborn and, sadly, for the supreme sacrifice it was their lot to make.

Those of us who came back are grateful for the opportunity to continue serving our communities and nation in ways that will enhance the pursuit and blessings of peace. We pray for the fulfillment of our pledge that peace and freedom, so valiantly fought for, will be maintained.

These thoughts are paramount on Remembrance Day.

The Book Nook

by Mona Bost

The Great Canadian Book Fair came to the Friends of the Library table at the Annual St. Georges Community Club Bazaar last weekend. This proved to be so successful that the selection of children's books, teen and junior books plus many ideal stocking stuffers will be available for sale at the library for a few more weeks. The craft items donated were very much appreciated and profits will go towards increasing our book and video collections. For those of you who still have Unicef boxes, please drop them off at the library so that the proceeds can be shipped to the unicef office in Winnipeg — your kind donations and support for this worthwhile cause are greatly appreciated by needy children the world over.

The knitting workshop which you might also consider...and I would welcome your good counsel about this issue: I broke the story about the mentally-unstable candidate on-the-air, because I have known him for years. To protect him and his family from further embarrassment and because it was not important to the story, I purposely withheld his name in reporting the story.

The Winnipeg Free Press, apparently, also agreed with my journalistic thinking. They caught up with the CJOB story a day late, but ran it across the top of Page One — without the name.

The mighty CBC not only ran the story with the name — they took their almighty cameras and stuck a microphone in front of the mentally-disabled man's face.

Was that ethical? Was that fair...or decent?

I've asked a number of questions this week. I would really appreciate your answers.

Remembrance Day Message November 11, 1989

On the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, 1918, the guns fell silent. Millions of soldiers across the torn and blood-soaked fields of Northern France and Flanders climbed from their trenches into the sunlight of the first hour of peace and safety in four long years. Men who a few minutes earlier had been burrowing in the earth trying to kill one another, now stood in the open with only thoughts of loved ones and of living to fill their minds.

Each year thereafter, we as a nation and as a commonwealth have paused on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month to observe that coming of peace that long ago November day and to remember, both individually and as a nation, those who never returned.

In the intervening years, our country again went to war. Our young men and women again offered themselves to the service of their nation, the time for a course that was no less than the defeat of a regime who challenged the basic principles of freedom, justice and decency.

In the years since the end of the Second World War and the Korean Conflict, our world has changed greatly. The many advances in communication and transportation have brought our world closer together than ever before. The tremendous power that modern science has given to the arsenals of the world has now made global conflict synonymous with global annihilation. And over the last few months and years, indeed even today, events in the Eastern bloc countries are reducing and will hopefully remove the antagonism between East and West which have dominated our politics for the last 45 years. In fact, it may be said some day by our children that this time was the beginning of a peaceful and cooperative era in world affairs.

As we pause this November 11 to remember the sacrifices of past wars, and to contemplate the future of our world and the building of peace, I believe that these words of Sir Winston Churchill are most appropriate.

In War: Resolution
In Defeat: Defiance
In Victory: Magnanimity
In Peace: Goodwill

Wild rice research assistance

Wild rice harvesters in Manitoba will benefit from the continuation of a wild rice research program through a $6,000 provincial grant.

In making the announcement, Natural Resources Minister Harry Enns said "the grant will enable Drs. Jim Stewart and Dave Punter of the University of Manitoba's botany department to continue their research in stimulating wild rice production in natural lakes and rivers."

Past work in this field has included consultation with interest groups, initiating wild rice demonstration areas for seed bank and seed selection studies and analysing sediment and water samples.

Work has also been done on identifying and assessing pest and disease damage and testing seed for viability and germination. An inventory of current and potential wild rice growing areas has already begun.

Drinking and driving: Measures called toughest in Canada

Effective November 1, Manitoba has the toughest anti-drinking and driving legislation in Canada.

"Drinking and driving is wrong," said Justice Minister Jim McCrae. "After November 1, Manitoba drivers who ignore that basic rule will suffer immediate consequences."

Under the new legislation, drivers who fail or refuse to take a breathalyzer test will have their driver's licenses suspended immediately for three months.

"Every Manitoban has a stake in safe highways. In the past five years, about 250 men, women and children have been

Remembrance Day

"To you from failing hands we throw the torch; be yours to hold it high."

Few of us have not heard or read John McCrae's poem below. Yet, with time, the spirit of these lines begins to fade. In the last 40 years a new generation of Canadians has grown to take peace in our country for granted.

The torch of freedom and peace is ours to hold high. Thousands of Canadians laid down their lives and, as other nations send their people off to war, we are reminded of the cost. On November 11, we will remember.

Vehicles driven by suspended drivers will be impounded for 30 days. To get the car back before that time, the owner must prove he or she had no knowledge of the driver's suspension.

Other parts of the initiative include:

- Drivers convicted three times in five years for Criminal Code drinking and driving offences will no longer be able to appeal their licence suspension to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.
- A computer link between the provincial division of Driver and Vehicle Licensing, Manitoba Public Insurance Corporation, and City of Winnipeg police will enable Winnipeg police to find out immediately through a direct computer link if the registered owner of a vehicle is suspended.
- Police have increased powers to stop traffic. Penalties for failing to stop have been increased to a maximum $1,000 fine or six months in jail from the former $100 fine or 30 days.

- A second mobile breath testing van, commonly known as an ALERT mobile, will be supplied by the province to the RCMP for use in roadside driver impairment testing throughout the province.
- A special Impaired Driving Court, created in May 1988, will continue to handle impaired driving offences in Winnipeg.
- Permit holders and hall owners now share responsibility for proper operation of halls under The Liquor Control Act. Owners found in violation may lose the right to have liquor permits issued for events in their halls.

Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing,

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved, and were loved, and now we lie

We shall not sleep, though poppies grow

Take a little starch out of the stuffed shirts

If it should ever befall my misfortune to suffer from low blood pressure I will never require medication. All I have to do is pick up a copy of Canada's self-styled national newspaper. One edition's enough to put my pressure off the meter.

What gets me on this theme today is the opinion of the Globe and Mail that Ray Hnatyshyn is not a fit candidate for the job in Government House. One sentence from a lead editorial will give you the gist. "It is an open question whether he has the inspirational qualities a governor-general should have, the ability to speak extemporaneously on the country and its values in a way that arouses crowds."

If that doesn't jar you, how about this from a column from the same paper's columnist, Michael Valpy. "Whether (Canada) can survive many more years of Mr. Mulroney's bad taste — whether it can survive his unerring instinct for the pedestrian, the average, the crass, the mediocre, the bottom-line buck, the patronage payoff, the continuous assault on the country's nobility — is in doubt. His appointment of Mr. Hnatyshyn as governor-general is bad. Even

So, while you're digesting all of this tripe, let me get on with a salutation to the man from Saskatoon: Congratulations, to His Excellency.

While the Torontonians lament the fact that one of theirs didn't get the highest posting in the land, we Prairie-ites can cluck approvingly at the thought we seem to have a lock on the job. Mr. Hnatyshyn is the third gopher in a row: Edward Schreyer came from Manitoba; Madame Sauve was born in Saskatchewan.

These appointments give me great pleasure. I have always viewed Canada as a shirt-sleeves country, and it is appropriate we take a little starch out of the stuffed shirts who once filled this position.

I smiled to myself when I read that current blast of stories about Government House. I once had an experience there so scintillating that 36 years later I'm still telling it to anyone who'll listen.

Two of us representing the Saskatchewan Golden Jubilee Committee travelled to Ottawa to see Governor-General Massey about his pending vice-regal tour. My partner was Dr. John Archer, then the

The Powerview Ladies Auxiliary brought in proceeds of $1,700 from their annual fall tea, thanks in part to the over 200 people who attended.

Crafts, baking, plants, white elephant gifts, and several raffles and door prizes were available for sale, with shoppers treated to a variety of fruit tarts and beverages at the tea tables.

legislative librarian, and now the retired president of the University of Regina.

We were met at the door by a sergeant of the RCMP who led us to the guest book, which stood on a pedestal in the lobby. Friend John observed the last signature was that of Lord Furness. His Lordship had scrawled "Furness of Argyll" across several lines. Not to be outdone by the trappings of nobility, John signed, "Archer of Broadview."

Some of the stuffiness came out of Government House when the Schreyer kids roller-skated up and down the corridors. I pray that Ray Hnatyshyn continues with an open-door policy for the common folk. As we have a system of government which is open to all the citizens, I would like to think that Government House should be the same. Nor do I overlook the position of governor-general itself.

Alice LaFrance (grocery hamper), Yvonne Chevrefils (handyman special), Mrs. A. Wilson (baby afghan), Rita Morissette (crocheted doily), Linda Desautels (Christmas tree skirt), Walter Wilson (last supper picture), Leone Pommer (crystal bowl), and Anna Nault (crystal pitcher and glasses).

A giant jar filled with candies proved to be a great drawing card for the young folks, although all ages were asked to guess how many candies filled the jar. Christine Jackson guessed correctly (380) and received the prize.

Children's door prizes were won by Dawn Nagazina, Michael Turner and Monique Bouvier; adult door prizes were won by Gilles Boulet, Lorraine Mysak, and Alice Morissette.

THE BOOK OF DANIEL

Daniel, the fourth of the prophets, if not of royal birth (as the Jews affirm) was of noble descent. He was carried captive to Babylon at an early age, in the fourth year of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, in the year 606 before the Christian era. Having been instructed in the language and literature of the Chaldeans, which at that time was greatly superior to the learning of the ancient Egyptians, he afterwards held a very distinguished office in the Babylonian empire. He was contemporary with Jeremiah, who mentions his extraordinary piety and wisdom. (Ezek. vi. 11, 20.) Daniel lived in great credit with the Babylonian monarchs, and his uncommon merit procured him the same regard from Darius and Cyrus, the first two sovereigns of Persia. He lived throughout the captivity, but it does not appear that he returned to his own country when Cyrus permitted the Jews to revisit their native land. The pseudo-Epiphanius, who wrote the lives of the prophets, says that he died at Babylon, and this assertion has been adopted by most succeeding writers; but as the last of his visions of which we have any account took place in the third year of Cyrus, about 534 years before the Christian era, when he was about ninety-four years of age, at Susa, on the Tigris, it is not improbable that he died there.

Although the name of Daniel is not prefixed to his book, the many passages in which he speaks in the first person sufficiently prove that he was the author. Josephus accounts Daniel one of the greatest of the prophets, and says that he converted familiarly with God, and not only predicted future events, as other prophets did, but also determined the time of their accomplishment. The book of Daniel may be divided into two parts. The first is historical, and relates various circumstances that happened to himself and to the Jews, under several kings of Babylon; the second is strictly prophetic, and comprises the visions and prophecies with which he was favored, and which enabled him to foretell numerous important events relative to the monarchs of the world, the time of the advent and death of the Messiah, the restoration of the Jews and the conversion of the Gentiles. Of the genuineness and authenticity of the Book of Daniel we have every possible evidence, both external and internal.

The period of Daniel's prophecies is that from the downfall of the monarchy at the captivity till its final restoration — yet future — the period of the dominion of the world powers, not yet aside by Christ's firm coming. (John xviii. 36, for, to have taken the earth-kingdom away, would have been to take it from Satan's hand.)

A Remembrance Day tribute

OMER VINCENT, April 13, 1920 to April 13, 1945

by Marlene Watson
Most Canadians will spend Saturday, November 11 morning in quiet reflection of wars gone past, of lives lost, of victories gained, and offer a few moments of silence in humble remembrance.

For the families of lost loved ones, the remembrance has been a lifetime of reflection, a lifetime of memories, and they know only too well the priceless cost of war.

On the very anniversary of his birth, April 13, Omer Vincent of St. Georges met his death, overseas while on a fateful mission to capture a German machine gun post.

"He wasn't supposed to go on that mission," recalls sister Bella (Vincent) Kemball, who said her brother volunteered for the four-man maneuver. At 25 years of age, Omer Vincent would never return to Canada. He, alongside another comrade on the same mission, were buried in Zutphen, Holland and later moved to a Permanent Canadian Cemetery in Holton, Holland.

Bella Kemball remembers the telegram that arrived at the St. Georges Post Office that 1945 April day. "I'll never forget because I had to translate the bad news to French so my mother could understand."

Brother Wilfred Vincent had not arrived home from his service and was quite upset by the news. The two brothers had met overseas and exchanged words shortly before Omer's death.

Omer Vincent was one of two men who did not return alive from a mission to capture a German machine gun post, and were buried by the comrades in Zutphen, Holland. These soldiers' remains were later moved to the Permanent Canadian Cemetery in Holton, Holland.

When Omer Vincent was a teenager, his winter months were spent hauling pulpwood by horse drawn cart.

Life on the farm
Parents, Fortunat and Marie Louise (Papineau) Vincent, had a large brood of children, 14 to be exact, and lived much the same existence as surrounding families, working their farm in St. Georges.

The St. Georges beach was once part of the Fortunat Vincent farm, and life along the river provided good crossing for the horse teams hauling pulpwood during the winter months.

With several strong sons, Fortunat managed a sizeable farm, and the brothers accepted many wood hauling contracts during the winter. Money was scarce, but everyone survived and was happy.

"Omer was like a ray of sunshine," recalls Bella Kemball, the youngest of the 14 children, "he was always teasing us all the time."

"Money was scarce, but he always shared with us. I remember he bought our first battery powered radio. Mom cherished that radio and only allowed us younger children to listen to certain programs because batteries were expensive in those days."

When the second world war broke out, the Vincent children numbered eleven, six brothers aged 9-31, and five sisters aged 12-30. Three children had died during infancy.

"When the war broke out, all the single men were called first, then the married men," said Bella, trying to recall as best she could the situation at a time when she was 12 years old. "volunteers went right away."

Of her brothers, Oscar at age 31 was except from duty because he was married with several dependants. Philippe, aged 25, was called to the service, but did not go overseas. Victor, aged 21, was called also, but was later sent home because he was needed on the farm. Omer volunteered immediately at age 19, and Wilfred at age 17, had to wait for service duty. Both Omer and Wilfred served overseas. The youngest brother, Sylvio, was just nine years old at the time.

With four brothers enlisted and two overseas, mother Vincent and sisters were hard at work preparing packages to send overseas. "each sister who was married took turns with mother to send a package to Wilfred and Omer," said Bella. Most of the shipments contained tin foods such as meat and fruit cake, and canned chicken jars stuffed into knitted stockings for safe keeping. Chocolate bars, cigarettes, and various knitted goods rounded out the tightly packed box that would be sewn into a large piece of cotton material. "If the box broke, it would still be contained by the cotton," said Bella. The two brothers would often write home to say they had received treasured packages.

Friends of the Library supper raises $500

by Marlene Watson
A fundraising supper hosted by the Friends of the Library was well attended and brought in proceeds of over $500 for Library Allard.

Roger and Joanne Bouvier were in attendance, with Roger enlisted to handle the emcee duties until MLA Darren Praznik arrived. Praznik told many amusing and interesting stories before presenting Father Rejean Belanger with a Manitoba flag for the St. Georges Parish Hall. Praznik also gave a Manitoba pin to each Canadian World Youth (CWY) participant.

The CWY group added greatly to the evening's entertainment, with a presentation of skits, little plays, songs, and audience games that dealt mainly with world hunger. In one game, three panels of audience members were asked various questions on world hunger in third world countries, and the winning panel received special certificates.

"The entertainment made people think. We still had fun while dealing with the subject of world hunger," said supper co-organizer Diane Dube. The CWY participants sang songs in French, English and Arabic, and enlisted the audience to participate on many occasions.

Most of the food was donated by members of Friends of the Library, with the ham and turkey purchased. Renate Johnson served the smorgasbord meal that consisted of ham, turkey, meat balls, wild rice, cabbage rolls, salads, vegetable dishes, potatoes, gravy, bannock, rolls, fruit salad and various cakes.

The money raised will be used for the children's corner of the Library Allard.

A telegram was received immediately, followed one month later by a letter from Omer's unit lieutenant. One last package arrived at the Vincent home containing Omer's rosary and service medal.

Bella remembers her father's illness during the war years. "his mind was falling him." Both her parents died two years after Omer's death, Marie Louise in July 1947, and Fortunat in October 1947.

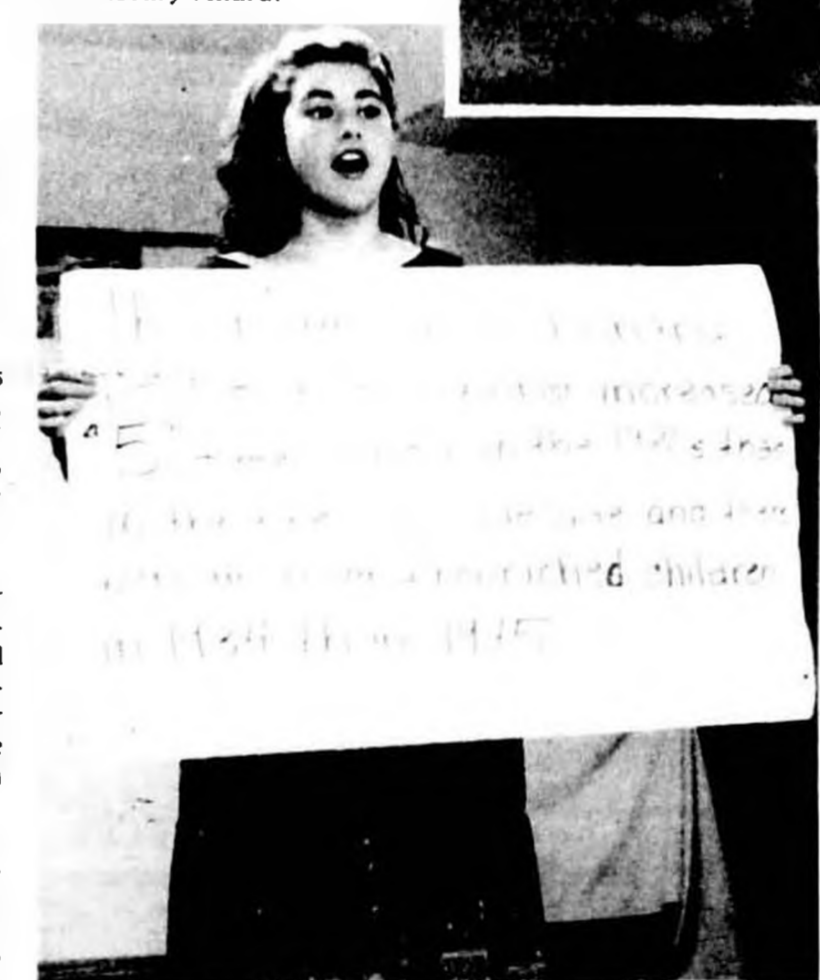

In 1949, a letter arrived for Marie Louise from the Canadian government. Bella opened the letter that said the government would provide passage for two family members to visit the grave of her brother, resting in Holland.

None of the surviving Vincent family was able to take advantage of this opportunity, but in 1969 Philippe travelled with his new wife to Holland for the special purpose of visiting Omer's grave. Philippe was unable to find the cemetery and returned to Canada disappointed.

Close family friend Fernande (Jarmouin) Clima had better luck in 1976 when she and husband Ralph travelled to Paris and were able to visit Omer's grave in Holland.

Of the original Vincent children, eight are living today, four brothers, Oscar, Victor and Philippe in St. Georges, and Wilfred in Powerview; four sisters, Aldea Dube of Pine Falls, Jeanette of British Columbia, and Antoinette Bouvier and Bella Kemball of St. Georges.

For the Vincent family, and many others, Remembrance Day comes more than once a year. "Omer loved hunting...he was like a ray of sunshine..."
Lest we forget!

As part of the CWY entertainment at the Friends of the Library fund raising supper, Alexis Phillips brought a message of world hunger to supper goers.

Farm family seminar

by Marilyn Zarecki
Home Economist,
Manitoba Agriculture
Beausejour, 268-1411

Another seminar! But, a great one! This year we have brought back Dr. Ron Hanson, well-known motivated speaker, professor and farm counsellor from Lincoln, Nebraska. Dr. Hanson will be speaking to farm couples on Building Better Working Relationships Between Farm Family Members. The seminar will identify and emphasize the human elements often overlooked in a family farming operation. It will stress human relationships and communication that can help avoid misunderstandings, ill feelings and problems between family members. Dr. Hanson will point out the common problems between many farm families. He will share real life farm family experiences that can help others resolve or avoid family problems. Dr. Hanson will share his "dos and don'ts" for families farming together. He will also look at the feelings and conflicts experienced by the children who leave the family farm.

The goal is to help family members stay on good terms and avoid people problems while farming together.

The date for this seminar is Tuesday, November 21, 1989, at the Friedensfeld Hall (three miles south of Steinbach on Hwy. No. 12, then one mile east on Hwy. No. 303). The seminar begins at 9:00 a.m. and ends at 3:30 p.m. Display booths will be there from Manitoba Hydro, public health nurse and Manitoba Agriculture.

The seminar is sponsored by the Steinbach Chamber of Commerce, with assistance provided by the Agri-Food Development Agreement.

Dr. Ron Hanson is professor of farm management and agricultural finance in the Department of Agricultural Economics at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. He has earned national recognition for his outstanding teaching abilities and his work with students.

Dr. Hanson is also a highly travelled speaker who shares a motivating message with audiences in a highly entertaining manner on the true to life human relationships and personal problems that can often arise between family members when farming together on a family farm.

Hanson was raised on a farm in northwestern Illinois and earned his college degrees from Western Illinois University and the University of Illinois.

Registration is $8.00 per person or $14.00 per couple, if you register before Thursday, November 9; and $10.00 per person or $18.00 per couple at the door. Please call our office at 268-1411, for more information or to pre-register.

southern boundary of Township 20 just north of the Trans License Road).

Natural Resources regional superintendent Adam Boyachek states that there is a difference between stubble burning and peat land development fire. "Stubble burning does not pose a problem, only when the fire has a danger of burning into peat that is below the stubble."

Boyachek notes that all fires within the control zone are watched carefully because of the peat content in the soil. "Normally the period for ideal burning is set from April 1 to November 15, but in the case of peat land development fires, new guidelines have been set for June 1 to August 31."

The new guidelines for peat land development fires have been drafted by farmers, environmental people and Natural Resources staff, said Boyachek, who adds a burn plan must now be developed jointly by the farmer and the District Natural Resources Office.

Anyone planning to use fire as part of peatland development process must get approval of the burn plan before clearing even starts. This approach would ensure approval when the time finally comes to burn.

Piles of peat must be dried and cured before any burning is attempted, and it is noted that it takes at least two years for piles to be dry enough to burn. The permit to burn will not be issued unless piles are tested to ensure they are dry right through.

There are also guidelines for how to burn the piles once they are dry enough. Ignition of piles must be done around the entire perimeter, plus dug into and ignited in the centre at regular intervals.

"It is not the peat fire that causes concern, it is the smoke that creates an environmental hazard," said Boyachek, who adds that the new guidelines have been established to create a safer peatland development program.

Through these guidelines, Natural Resources will have more regulating authority on granting burning permits, and will have the authority to enter upon private land to extinguish the fire if it is posing a problem.

Huge discount savings at new warehouse

by Marlene Watson
Onlookers have noticed many changes at Mark's Clark's Corner over the past month, but consumers will be very impressed with a new warehouse Mark Reimer is opening just behind his restaurant, called Discount Mark's, a wholesale warehouse.

Reimer guarantees unbelievable savings for local townfolk. "I've always said people should be shopping locally, but they have to be given a reason to do so."

My warehouse will feature discounts ranging up to and over 50% of what large Winnipeg stores offer. We will specialize in every imaginable item, such as brand name toys, brand name pet supplies, gifts, luxury high quality towels, clothing, and birthday party favours. The items I've mentioned so far are only starters, we will be bringing in much, much more.

"We'll stay with certain product lines that are in demand the most, and try to rotate goods so customers have a variety to choose from. Whatever I can get at a proper price, I will stock."

Reimer has been toying with the concept for a number of years, but began seriously planning to incorporate the warehouse idea since he returned to Pine Falls just under a year ago. "I want to bring to Pine Falls what we've needed for a long time."

Reimer says that through his contacts in Winnipeg acquired from his previous work experiences, he was able to make quantity purchase deals that will benefit the rural consumer, my motto is "seeing is believing."

Community residents will have the chance to exercise that motto when the warehouse holds its Grand Opening on Thursday, November 9 at 5:00 p.m.

Granite Shield Incentives completes successful first year

Granite Shield Incentives, Inc. completed its first year of operation on October 31, 1989.

At the last regular board meeting held on October 30, a new executive was elected. Ken Sellick of Lac du Bonnet indicated his desire to step down as chairman to allow the position to be passed around to reflect the regional nature of the corporation. Peter Raymond of St. Georges was elected chairman, and William Boonstra of Whitemouth will be vice-chairman for the coming year. Cal Schade of Powerview accepted the position of secretary/treasurer. Other board members are Lawrence Porhownik, Garson; Leona Stengel, Beausejour; Lawrence Fielberg, Rennie; Dave Studham, Pinawa; Gerry Hemminger, Pinawa; Ken Sellick, Lac du Bonnet. A vacancy exists to represent the RM of Lac du Bonnet since the resignation of Rene Lavoie was accepted, with regret, by the board. This position will be filled by consultation between the executive and the RM council.

An annual report will be circulated following the year end audit which will be performed in November, 1989. However, preliminary year end figures were given in the manager's report.

The operating costs of the business development centre were $20,000, or 14% under budget. The total investment in small businesses in the region was $319,000, or 159% of the budget of $200,000 projected before the Business Development Centre opened. The investments were all placed in the Beausejour and Alexander areas.

Approximately 125 clients were served with technical and advisory services. Forty (40) jobs were created or maintained which are related to the investments, and 34 jobs were related to the technical and advisory services offered to clients.

A motion of appreciation to the outgoing chairman, Ken Sellick was passed. The staff of Ken Tully, Cindy Nespor and Pauline Gibson was also commended for a job well done in the first year of operation.

The board and staff are looking forward to the upcoming year with great enthusiasm and look forward to increasing the service to the business community in the area served by Granite Shield Incentives, Inc.

Restaurant and gas bar undergo changes

Mark's Clark's Corner restaurant has undergone a bit of a face lift with the addition of three large French windows along the front, and grey siding with white painted trim. Reimer says he plans to have the left side of the stone front painted grey with white mortar trim to match the right side.

The interior of the restaurant will undergo some redecoration by the end of November says Reimer who has visions of establishing an "old country inn" setting.

Gas pumps are presently closed while expansion takes place, but once opened, will be able to serve up to eight cars at one time. "We'll be selling all grades of gasoline, including premium unleaded, and our new pumps will be digital high speed," says Reimer.

Reimer says he is pleased with the increase in business to date and attributes that to his staff's response to the needs of the people. "We're trying to adapt to what the people want, and once a week hold management meetings with various department heads to discuss problems or complaints and try to solve the problems on the spot if possible. The rest of the meeting is spent throwing around new ideas that basically focus on customer service."

Mark's Clark's opens to the public every morning at 6:45 a.m., closing at 10:30 p.m. Sunday to Thursday, and 11:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday evenings.

Book advocates rural spirit

Rural Development Minister Jack Penner officially released a new book entitled Bootstrap Two on Thursday, October 26, at the Prairie Forum on Rural Development in Brandon.

Written by Fred McGuinness of Brandon, the book is meant to serve as a testimonial to the entrepreneurial spirit in rural Manitoba.

McGuinness, a former editor of the Brandon Sun, currently writes a regular column entitled Neighbourly News for rural newspapers. He is also a well-known advocate for rural living and the quality of rural people.

"We were delighted to publish this book," said Penner. "The message underlying all 20 short stories within it is one that I believe in emphatically. The people of rural Manitoba have learned to be independent, hardworking and most of all — entrepreneurial!"

representative from the Department of Industry, Trade and Tourism and a representative from Coopers and Lybrand Consulting Group. The seminar focuses on issues such as the nature of the Free Trade Agreement (FTA), determining the effects of the FTA, and developing a strategic plan for responding to the free trade.

On behalf of the ERDC, I would like to thank the participants, the speakers, the seminar leaders and those organizations that co-sponsored the events with us. Your involvement in this year's schedule of events made Small Business Week in the Eastman Region a success!

Education/training in the region

The ERDC is interested in finding out what type of evening distance education courses and training programs you would be interested in taking or would like to see offered in your own community. Largely due to the efforts of local community development groups, Red River Community College (RCCC) evening courses such as How to Start a Small Business; Marketing; Introduction to Criminology and the Justice System and a University of Winnipeg course for Educational Assistants are being hosted in communities within the region. The response to hosting such courses within the region has been most encouraging. For example, twenty-four people gather at Kelsey House in Pinawa each week to learn the principles on how to start a business of their own.

Thus far, four RCCC courses have been hosted in the region since May of this year. Approximately seventy people have taken advantage of the opportunity of taking courses in the region rather than travelling to Selkirk, Winnipeg or other centres outside of the region. The ERDC wants to do so, we need your suggestions as to what type of courses/training you would like to see offered in the region. Send us your suggestions by mail or call our office at 268-2884.
