Environmental group opposed to logging in Nopiming Park

by Charles Norman

Last week Abitibi-Price Woods Division held two public meetings to inform the public of their logging plans for the next eight years and to introduce the environmental impact assessment process.

At both meetings, Abitibi-Price Woods Manager Dave Chown, Divisional Forester Harold Peacock and Forest Renewal Supervisor Vince Keenan presented an overview of the plan. Chown said the intention was to produce an environmentally sound plan. Keenan said the company plans to spend eight million dollars on forest renewal over the next eight years, which includes three million dollars for the replanting of 13.8 million trees. He said a non-toxic biological agent is used to control spruce budworm in some areas, and the herbicide Vision (Roundup) in low concentrations for the short-term suppression of woody plants, primarily aspen. Prior to replanting. He said Roundup works by interfering with the photosynthesis process and is non-toxic to animal life. "It's less toxic than aspirin," he said.

At the first meeting, August 28 in Pine Falls, Len Weiss of Caribou Lodge said he was concerned about the effect of logging on spring run-off and the effect this would have on pickerel spawning. He said if the run off is too fast, or at the wrong time, there would be no spawning that year and he would very soon be out of business.

More opposition emerged from the Winnipeg meeting on August 30. Harvey Williams, board member of the Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society said his organization is opposed to logging in parks and it would be a public relations disaster if Abitibi-Price logged along the Bird River. He said the Bird River, upstream of Bird Lake, must be one of the most popular canoeing routes anywhere, and a proposed 100 metre buffer would be totally inadequate.

He was not impressed by the non-toxic nature of Vision. "Our organization would be bitterly opposed to the use of herbicides," he said.

Communities join together to aid cancer research

The communities of Pine Falls, Powerview, St. Georges and Fort Alexander will join together on Saturday, September 15, 1990 to contribute to the effort started 10 years ago by cancer victim Terry Fox. One of many "Terry Fox" events scheduled throughout the country, this local event is hoped to generate awareness, a united effort, and of course, funds all in the aid of cancer research.

The Terry Fox Run-Walk-Jog or Bike will be held on Saturday, September 15, 1990.

4-P bigger and better than ever

Added attractions such as a petting zoo for the kiddies and a waterski show and the traditional events such as Western Days, a slo-pitch ball tournament and an even bigger-than-usual parade made this year's 4-P Festival bigger and better than ever.

Here five-year-old Aimee Niedermeyer feeds Annie, an oberhaski goat at the petting zoo. Please see pages 2 and 3 for a photo recap of the colourful activities and watch next week's REVIEW for full details.

POLICE REPORT

Uneventful Labour Day weekend

Staff Sgt. Don Murphy of the Powerview RCMP detachment reported an uneventful labour day weekend.

Considering the number of people in town, it was a pretty quiet weekend," he said. However, 23 people were arrested for being intoxicated and were held overnight. They were released the next morning without being charged. RCMP also sorted out a few scuffles at the Pine Falls Arena Sunday night and arrested two impaired drivers during the weekend.

Murphy said the number of arrests for impaired driving is down substantially from last year. He said up to the end of July, this year 85 impaired drivers have been charged, compared with 125 for the same period last year. He attributes the reduction to the new drinking and driving laws.

The candidates speak out

The Leader caught up with all three candidates, who were all busy campaigning on Tuesday, to voice what they felt were the major concerns in the Lac du Bonnet constituency and across the province. Here's what they had to say.

Kolton

by Gladys Godt

Len Kolton, the candidate for the New Democratic Party, returned our call to tell us of his progress in the coming September 11 election.

Kolton said that he had a great team of workers and that his campaign was financially healthy, though he mentioned there were a great number of undecided voters.

Mr. Kolton has a special interest in the health care situation in the region. In particular, he wishes to enhance

Mr. Frank Thibedeau draws on his long experience as a member of the school board to find his priorities for this 1990 provincial election.

He set out Health Care as being one of the most important he will keep in focus in his quest for an MLA seat. "Health care is No. 1," he said. "Health care is a priority for both young and old."

 'Strange bedfellow' therapy — again!

If this provincial election campaign has proved anything, it has underlined once again just how our political system makes for strange bedfellows.

As well, the campaign leading up to the vote next Tuesday has also underscored for all and sundry to see that all is fair in love, war — and politics.

Take the Meech Lake mess: There, on nation-wide television day and night, the three Manitoba musketeers stood backs to the wall together. Lavish praise literally dripped from the lips of Gary Filmon, Sharon Carstairs and Gary Doer — on each other.

A few short months later, the bloom is off the rose and the name-calling and mudslinging are back with a vengeance as though the all-for-one, and one-for-all in Ottawa never happened.

That dour CCF leader, Tommy Douglas, who was an amateur boxing champion in his youth, used to say that an election campaign had to be a worse physical and mental workout than a 10-round title fight.

And, after all, it is really only for the end result: power.

We have seen, too, another historical fact stamped into this particular campaign: aboriginal support.

Ever since Elijah Harper stood his ground and single-handedly brought the Meech Lake Accord to its knees, we have witnessed a groundswell of popular backing for native land claims, for native demands for self-government, for native politicians.

The cross-country support for the Mohawks at Oka, Quebec, is unprecedented in Canadian history.

And, indeed, the Aboriginal Fact has been of major proportions in this provincial election. It will make itself felt even more in future elections, both provincial and federal.

(It should be noted that former NDP cabinet minister Sird Green, who now leads the Progressive Party, is the only provincial politician to have taken an outright stand on the issue of Indian self-government — Green says they already have self-government "one man, one vote" under the democratic system we now have.)

Over the past 25 years, we have seen far greater emphasis being placed on the attention being paid to various ethnic groups by the three main political parties. That became patently obvious as you watched the federal Liberal Party leadership convention from Calgary.

Indeed, all three Manitoba leaders used the first day of this current campaign to woo ethnic votes. Filmon, Carstairs and Doer made Folklorama pavilions their first ports of call on Day One.

That same flirtation with a particular group of eligible voters is certain to be directed at the native people, both Indian and Metis, to a much greater degree in the future — for both their votes and to have individual members of their communities run as candidates.

That's one of the reasons that very little has

A turn of the screw

by Terry O'Shaughnessy

Canada's major banks have certainly been trying to polish their image of late. Various publicity campaigns seem to be going to great pains to create a kinder, gentler banker...friend to consumer and entrepreneur alike. One could argue that the banks are finally being dragged kicking and screaming into modern times. But it's going to take more than a few glossy magazine advertisements and catchy slogans to convince the public that attitudes have changed.

A case in point is the recent finding that, in the midst of this new banker-friendly campaign, Canada's major chartered banks have been increasing service charges, tightening lines of credit and changing loan conditions for as much as one half of the entire small business community.

In a survey conducted by the Canadian Federation of Independent Business in June of this year, fully 50 per cent of respondents reported they had experienced service charge increases over a one-year period beginning in June of last year. Only 27 per cent said their rates had remained the same, while 4 per cent had seen a decrease. The remainder were not aware of any changes.

Catherine Swift, CFIB vice president of research and chief economist, says that even more damning is the overwhelming 87 per cent of respondents who stated that they did not feel that the increase costs for the banks' services reflected a comparable increase in the amount or quality of services received. There was also strong agreement by 40 per cent of the respondents that the banks need to better inform their small business customers of any changes in the charges.

"This is nothing new for the banks," Swift says. "They have been pushing up service fees to small businesses for a long time without proper notification or justification."

She adds that one in three small business borrowers, at 34 per cent, have had their loan arrangements changed, or their line of credit tightened since last year.

"The major chartered banks continue to give lip service to being both sensitive and interested in their small business customers but do not back this up with policies and actions," she continues. "Nearly one in three respondents face collateral demands in excess of 200 per cent of the value of their loan or credit lines. With high interest rates and a recession threatening, small firms are more vulnerable than ever to rising bank costs and tightening conditions. And yet, the banks have not changed their attitudes despite the recent feel-good campaign."

The question that begs an answer is: with friends like these, who needs enemies?

been said in this campaign about the fact that the Cree compensation deal in northern Manitoba is in jeopardy. Negotiations to settle the Indians' damage claims over massive hydroelectric projects are mixed down...and the proposed $250 million deal is up in the air.

Ottawa and the province made the compensation offer to the Cree communities in June — 14 years after their lands were flooded to accommodate Manitoba Hydro. Norway House and Cross Lake are now demanding that the deal includes an obligation that both levels "eradicate mass poverty and mass unemployment" on five reserves.

That issue alone might have been swept under the rug in this campaign — but it will be front and centre for the new provincial government.

And any government will ignore it at its peril. Red Power is here to stay.

A question was raised on the effect of logging and forest fires on soil composition. Keenan said a fire often burns off all the organic material down to bedrock or inorganic soil while most of the forest biomass remains after logging.

The Winnipeg meeting was very sparsely attended, only 14 people showed up — three from Abitibi-Price, three from Abitibi-Price's consulting firm Synthen Resources, one from the Manitoba government, Forestry consultant Dave Meilleur and his wife, a cottage owner and four environmentalists.

In a later interview, Peacock said he was disappointed with the number of people at the Winnipeg meeting which was held on the same night as the provincial election leaders' debate. "We had expected about 100," he said. In spite of the poor turnout, he thought it was a useful process and all of the problems raised could be dealt with, with the exception of logging in Nopiming Park which he said was a political decision.

WOW and you

It's back to school time! In the last few days you will have noticed the return of orange school buses to our Provencher roads and children heading back to school with their books.

For many high school students, this means quitting various summer jobs, to once again concentrate on studies. For some, however, the prospect of school is not encouraging, and the potential to become a high school dropout is real.

I am focusing this week on WOW (Work Orientation Workshops) as a reminder of the $1.9 million in federal assistance for potential high school drop-outs. You may not be aware that WOW not only operates through the summer, but through the regular school year, as well.

This summer, approximately 600 high school students participated in 57 Work Orientation Workshops. The bulk of this year's budget — $1,335,000 — went towards these projects. The remaining $565,000 will fund approximately 15 projects which will involve about 300 students during the 1990-91 school year.

The federal government understands the education and employment needs of Canadian students. The WOW program has proven successful in helping potential dropouts evaluate their school and work options.

WOW is an important, innovative part of Challenge '90, the federal government's $140 million summer employment program for students. It offers potential and recent high school dropouts a combination of seminars and work experience. Young people are assisted in evaluating their employment and education options and encouraged to continue with their education or seek more specific skills training, based on their future employment ambitions. Community groups, school divisions and organizations are provided with the funds and training to operate WOW projects. The young people are given lifeskills training, during which time they receive a nominal income of up to $50 per week while in class. During their work experience with community employers, they are paid minimum wage by the Department of Employment and Immigration.

The success of the WOW approach speaks for itself. Nationally it is estimated that 90 percent of WOW participants return to school at the end of the project, demonstrating the positive influence the WOW experience has had on them.

WOW has proven very effective in helping young people rethink their education and employment options. In 1989, this summer program was expanded to include pilot year-round WOW projects in every province. In concert with my government's recently announced National Stay-in-School Initiative, the program has been further expanded from $20.2 million in 1989 to $35.5 million this year, in 1990 to provide assistance to more young people.

Last summer, 9,039 young Canadians participated in these workshops. An additional 1,545 have participated in year-round WOWs.

I cannot stress enough to young adults the importance of continuing their education to help ensure a more secure future. The WOW program provides participants with an insight into the labour force, assists them in identifying their future goals and further helps set out a plan by which those goals may be achieved.

I wish you all the best in the new school year.

Sunnywood Manor

We have been gearing up for the 4P Festival weekend celebrations. Tuesday morning Mary Henowicz, Alice Robitaille, and Sharon Ogg whipped up nearly 100 cookies to sell at our open house. On Thursday and Friday afternoon, decorations were put up to enhance the festive atmosphere.

Bingo winners this week included Stanford Houston, Rikka Carlson, Jim Romano, and Cecilia Chevretil. The games were fast and furious as we managed to squeeze in six within an hour. Alice Robitaille was the champ of the week in the bean bag tournament.

Father Boisjoli led a delightful service Wednesday morning, accompanied by Flo Vincent and Ronny St. Pierre singing many wonderful hymns.

CARDS OF THANKS

Many thanks to all my friends for coming to my 90th birthday tea. It was a joy to see you all. To my family, many thanks for their part in making my day very special.

The farmers' corner

Grain storage

With low grain prices and decent yields, a number of farmers will be storing varied quantities of grain. Several enquiries have been made about the cost of renting grain bins. This, of course, will vary with circumstances. However, a starting point to consider may be what a grain elevator will charge for grain put into storage.

The storage rates at the local elevator are .035 cents/tonne/day for wheat; .058 cents/tonne/day for oats and .044 cents/tonne/day for barley.

At those rates, the cost per month for a 1750 bushel bin would work out to $49.98 per month for wheat; $46.98 per month for oats and $50.39 for barley.

A 3000 bushel bin would work out to $85.68 per month for wheat; $80.38 for oats and $86.20 for barley.

Iraq exports

How big of a Canadian grain customer is Iraq? During the 1989/90 grain year, Iraq purchased 5.3% of our exports of Canadian Red Spring Wheat, making it our fifth largest customer behind China (31.2%), Russia (17.7%), Japan (8.8%) and Iran (9.3%).

During the same period Iraq received 7.1% of all barley exports from Canada making them our fourth largest customer behind Saudi Arabia (30.3%), Russia (22.9%) and Japan (19.5%).

Because of this relatively large volume, this will most certainly affect grain prices. However, a more immediate affect of the Middle East crisis will be the increase in fuel and fertilizer costs as a result of reduced oil supplies.

Grading standards
Canada's Best Grading Standard will be changing on April 1, 1991. This will be the first change since 1972.

The main intent of the changes is to make a grading system that does not make assumptions about the eating quality of a carcass, e.g. the implication that A1A2 is best. The change in standards will now allow a buyer to better describe the carcass.

For those who want to become familiar with the new systems, you can study the federal carcass blue tags. Tags are available at a cost of $1.25 per tag by calling MCPA at 783-5860.

Smoke dispersion forecast

At the request of Manitoba Agriculture, Environment Canada has agreed to offer a special weather information service for farmers who will be burning stubble this fall.

The service began August 20 and runs through to October 15. It will provide detailed wind information and smoke dispersion forecasts for the Red River Region. Farmers will get wind, sky and sunshine information as well as ratings of good, limited or poor for the dispersion of smoke into the atmosphere.

The information will be made available to farmers through Environment Canada's Weatheradio system and the rural weather information telephone recordings. The telephone numbers are: (1) 943-5905 and (1) 943-6806.

The new service will complement Manitoba government efforts to minimize problems caused by stubble burning. A key element in this effort is the education of farmers about practical alternatives to burning. For farmers who continue to burn, the smoke dispersion forecasts will provide important information to ensure they do so in a safe and responsible manner.

Darren with students and faculty at the official opening of the Centennial School addition in Lac du Bonnet.

Darren and the Gary Filmon team are committed to the Agricultural Industry. Since being elected in 1988 they have: removed the provincial education tax (E.S.T.) from farmland; made a Special Grants Payment to North eastern and Interlake farmers in 1988 for excessive summerfallow in 1986; and created an Interest Rate Relief Program for all Manitoba farmers.

Darren worked with Western Beef in establishing their business in Beausejour. The company now employs approximately 20 people and provides a market for our local cattle producers.

Beekeeping is a great learning experience

Despite his limited vocabulary, Kelly McGuinness, aged two, can be quite expressive. About once a week he takes me by the thumb, leads me to the pick-up, and says "bees".
Grandson and I have our usual one-sided conversation on our half-mile drive to the bee-yard, but when we get there all is silence. Kelly stands at the truck window for 10-15 minutes, watching my little friends as they make their countless trips into the sweet clover. I am delighted with his fascination; beekeeping is a great learning experience.

On one of our recent excursions, I fell to thinking about the problems of the honey industry. Here's my appraisal. There's a bumper crop in the making. The number of producers is down. The price is in the pits. Those who have stuck with honey production have developed a specialty, or have an outside source of income. I did a check with the provinces.

Mike Dorrance, of Alberta Agriculture, has a story that will break your heart. In five years the number of beekeepers in this province has slumped to 771, from over 1700. The number of hives has dropped to 144,000 from a high of 207,000.

John Gruszka, of Saskatchewan, reports that in five years this province has lost 15 major producers, i.e. those with 1000 hives or more. (Some of their production units are being operated by banks). The number of hives in this same period dropped to 100,000 from 120,000.

Don Dixon, of Manitoba, tells me that in 1985, 1,350 producers operated 120,000 hives. These numbers have shrunk to 1,100 producers with 87,000 hives.

Manitoba beekeepers are reporting to Dixon that farmers are asking for more hives in their areas; pollination is down.

This industry has been Reorganized. When the former U.S. president initiated a buy-back, price-support system for his beekeepers, this action broke the price. Canadian producers saw it fall overnight to 40 cents from around 65.

Another hard knock was the closing of the border to importations of U.S. bee stocks.

It was infectious diseases which made this necessary, and it turned out to be a dark cloud with a silver lining. It forced the more venturesome Canadian beekeepers to begin producing their own queen bees, and this has the prospect of becoming a new industry with growth potential.

Most observers believe that when Africanized bees ("killer" bees to the tabloid journalists) get to the U.S. in a couple of years, there will be a heavy demand for new strains of queens, and Canada should have a surplus to sell by that time.

As is the case with every other commodity, price is everything. Every provincial spokesman said roughly the same thing: "if the prices recover, the industry will recover. Until this happens, well..."

But I got proof of something we must never forget; there's always some business out there for the earnest seeker. Mike Dorrance tells me there's a growing demand for Canadian bee hives in Japan, where they are needed in the greenhouse production of strawberries and kiwi fruit. Perhaps if we can't sell the honey, we can sell the means of production.

199 candidates in race by Gladys Godt

A news release from The Manitoba Government states that 3000 enumerators carried out the enumeration in 57 electoral divisions during the past weeks.

Any voters who were missed, may still have their name added up to and including polling day.

Richard Balasko, acting chief electoral officer announced the closing of nominations and that, 199 candidates had filed papers with the returning officers for the provincial general election.

Candidates endorsed by registered political parties are as follows:

1 Communist Party of Canada (Manitoba committee); 6 Confederation of Regions Manitoba; 57 Liberal Party in Manitoba; 5 Libertarian Party of Manitoba; 5 Manitoba Progressive Party; 57 New Democratic Party of Manitoba; 57 Progressive Conservative Party of Manitoba; 6 Western Independence Party of Manitoba; as well, 5 candidates are running as Independents.

Candidates' spending limits are approximately $1.86 per name on the revised voters' list in the electoral division in which the candidate is nominated.

Of this amount only $.37 of it may be spent on advertising.

Spending limits for registered political parties are approximately $1.19 per name on the revised voters' list in all electoral divisions in which a party endorses candidates. Only $.59 of which may be spent on advertising.

Under the Elections Finances Act, candidates and registered political parties are eligible for partial reimbursement of election expenses.

To qualify, a candidate must have 10% or more of the valid votes in the electoral division.

In the 1988 election the final count of ballots showed the following results: Praznik of the Progressive Conservatives with 3764 votes; Clarence Baker (incumbent) of the New Democratic Party with 2894 votes; Raymond of the Liberals with 2397 votes.

Praznik of the PC's is running again in the 90's election along with Len Kolton of the NDP and Frank Thibedeau of the Liberal Party.

The returning officer in the constituency of Lac du Bonnet has reported that there are 12,706 eligible voters in this riding, while figures for the riding of La Verendrye were unavailable at press time.

Manitoba Farm Women's Conference

by Marilyn Zarecki
Home Economist
Manitoba Agriculture
Beausejour, 268-1411

I know it is a busy time of year for all of you with harvest in full swing, garden vegetables ready for freezing and canning, and all those fruits waiting to be made into jams, jellies and juices.

However, the Manitoba Farm Women's Conference is approaching. The dates are November 13, 14, 15, 1990 at the Holiday Inn, Downtown, Winnipeg. As of today, only ten people from Eastern Region have registered — five from Dugald and one from Oakbank. Come on, everyone, let's fill our quota of 100 from Eastern Region.

In the past, this conference has been a valuable experience. Five hundred farm women from across the province get together to listen to well-known speakers, and just get away from the farm for two and a half days, plus meet new friends.

This year's theme, Partners in Progress includes optional pre-conference tours to the Canadian International Grains Institute, Canadian Wheat Board, and Pace Setter Swim and Gym Wear. The select-a-cession topics include: home based business, lobbying at different levels of government, families on their farms, legal concerns, the role you can play in community development, helping children learn about the importance of the agriculture industry, plus more.

The opening speaker is well known, Dr. Ron Hanson, from the University of Nebraska. Ron is also a widely travelled speaker who shares a motivating message with farm audiences in a highly entertaining manner on the true to life family relationship problems and personal conflicts that can often arise between family members when farming together in a family farming operation.

The cost for the conference is $60.00. It includes two breakfasts, one lunch, plus the banquet, as well as all the sessions and tours. Rooms are available at $85.00/room (double occupancy) at the Holiday Inn, Downtown.

If you would like more information or a registration brochure, please call me at 268-1411.

ELECTION DAY INFORMATION

Voting in the provincial election will take place Tuesday, September 11, 1990 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.
You are eligible to vote if you are a Canadian citizen; are 18 years of age or older on or before September 11, 1990; and have resided in Manitoba for at least 6 months immediately prior to September 11, 1990.
The location of your polling place is listed on the posted Voters' List and on the Record of Enumeration (for urban voters). The location of your polling place can also be obtained from the Returning Office in your electoral division.
If your name is not on the Voters' List and you are eligible to vote, you may take an oath at your polling place in order to vote. Two pieces of identification must be shown to the Deputy Returning Officer at the poll.
Employees are entitled to three consecutive hours to vote while the polls are open. This time must be allocated at the employer's convenience without any deduction in pay or penalty being imposed on the employee.
* Templates are available for the visually impaired to aid in marking the ballot. Assistance is available at the poll for anyone who, due to a physical cause, requests assistance in voting.

BOOK NOOK

by Kristine Phillips
Hi again. I'm back from holidays and I just wanted to take some time to say good-bye to all of the Book Nook readers who have followed my articles through the summer. I had a great time working this summer, as all the people are as friendly as can be, even the Boss. I'd really like to extend a warm thank you to Mrs. Bossi who, as always, is a great person to talk to and is excellent to work with. Our children's wind-up was a huge success. Most of the children made it and brought friends or relatives. We played outside from 10:30 a.m. till noon, then had a hot dog lunch. I was then treated to a warm farewell by all.

This year's 4P parade had an unexpected twist to it with our book worm — what else would you expect from a library? Anyways, it turned out great and on behalf of the library, thank you to all those who participated in the creating and walking of the Library Allard's book worm.

Well, now for the Library news. There are eight new books out on display, and ready to go. The English fiction include authors such as P.O. James, Steven King, Clive Barker, Alice Monroe and James Michener. There are also two new French books — Part I and II of Les Filles de Caleb by Arlette Cousteau. Finally, there is a book of mythology by Edith Hamilton. Good-bye and have a great year.

Improper waste disposal 'blown out of proportion'

by Manju Lodha
Instead of the usual two-year term, Whiteshell Research at Pinawa has had its operating license extended to only one year by the Atomic Energy Control Board.
"AECL or AECB are troubled," said Dr. Harry Johnson, director of Environmental and Physical protection at WNRE. He mentioned in the changing atmosphere of licensing, like hospital accreditation, there are certain guidelines suggested and WNRE is working towards them.
Dave Taylor, spokesperson for the Concerned Citizens group, pointed out that an AECB report says highly radioactive material was dumped in a landfill site twice.
"This is sloppy. These are the same people who want to put nuclear waste in the Canadian Shield for a hundred thousand years. Would you trust them?"

For Hugh Spence, chief of Public Information AECB on a CBC radio talk show on August 29 said, "That's one of these blown out of proportion things." He explained that there were different places for active and non-active material. When first checked the material was non-active, but when the empty truck was checked the soil showed it had low level radioactive material which was then moved to the proper place.
On the same program he mentioned, "AECB is often accused of being too cosy with the nuclear industry. This is one case where you can see why some of the licensees hate our guts...we rarely have notice." He also said, "Whiteshell has a very good record...effluents to the environment are just a hundredth or less of the limits they are allowed, so basically the plant is running well and there are just these things scientists and engineers argue about...and that's what's included in the report."

Johnson acknowledged that there was a little bit of truth in what the Concerned Citizens are saying but they have made a mountain out of a molehill. These are public documents, offering a copy about the issue of filter test. He said there was a meter over the filter which showed the air coming out was clean.
The Slowpoke is an important project and problems pointed out by the concerned group were old when the experiment was being developed on the paper.
For concrete storage of radioactive material, Johnson said that they are safely protected by the barriers like other storages in the country. They only had trouble with their alarm system on the fence around them which was giving false alarms and they were looking into changing it.
In regards to the concerns about the quality of the water and incidence of leukaemia, Johnson said that the water was tested by them as well as by the Department of Health regularly and a yearly report is published.
He said that none of their employees had ever complained that by working at AECL they or their offspring were suffering from the fatal disease leukaemia.

The Leader had recently called area doctors, Pinawa Hospital, community care in Beauséjour and other sources, but none reported any increases in leukaemia or birth deformities.
RM Councillor George Ylonen said, "Every company has problems, you learn by experience and mistakes. Unfortunately these things happen. What bothers me the most is that with other companies the worst possible accidents are reported immediately but we learn about them (AECL) two or three years later."
Dave Torgerson, vice-president of Waste Management said the Canadian Nuclear Industry "is a very safety conscious company; safety is a very important part of our culture. There is an intention of keeping things hidden." He explained that these incidents are very minor in comparison to Chernobyl or Three Mile Island. AECL officials said that they were very open. When people have concerns, they would like them to talk to AECL.
Taylor said that a gentleman's agreement between the province and AECL was not enough. The Province of Manitoba should have some kind of legal agreement with AECL.
Two men talking near Pinawa Club mentioned that AECL has recently expanded and were just showing their muscle." The other one said, "Manitobans should sit back and relax that someone is keeping an eye on AECL activities."

The candidates speak out

the home care state for seniors and relieve the pressure in the hospitals. Personal care homes are equipped to handle the needs of seniors.

Job creation is high on his list of region requirements for both the youth and for women. Some programs of the past such as Main Street Manitoba, worked well and provided local contractors with jobs which caused a bit of an economic spin. He is interested in keeping the young people in the area.

Tourism, the natural and obvious blessing of the area, he further wishes to develop.

Kolton is deeply concerned about the agricultural state of the district and claims that it is in a very depressed state. He intends to make this concern of his a major point of focus.

Pay equity, he feels that the raising of the minimum wage is essential. People on minimum wage have to be able to purchase the goods and services of the local business people so that all benefit from this approach.

Kolton has been a card-carrying member of the NDP for the past 20 years and an executive member of the Lac du Bonnet NDP Association. He has been an active campaign worker for the past three provincial and federal elections.

His biography says that he is committed to upholding the NDP commitment to a strong health system, fairer tax structures, environmental concerns, farm assistance programs and decent wages and living conditions for all Manitobans.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank everyone who sent cards, gifts and flowers while I was in the hospital. But I'm most thankful for all the prayers and the blessing of the good Lord.

Praznik

Approximately 15,000 to 20,000 people cross the bridge on any given weekend during the summer.

Scheduled for year one is an expenditure of about $300,000.00 for engineer and designing. Year two has $1.6 million for improving the roads, removing the curves at the approaches and removal of the tower.

Praznik said that during the past two years, an assessment of the bridge has been made and $100,000.00 has been spent on the understructure. Money has been budgeted and the commitment has been made. Year three — construction of the new bridge.

Praznik said that the "big plus" for the "growth" has been the realization of the cottage industry.

Lottery funding has been directed for expansion in the area. Seventy thousand dollars for the Pioneer Club, seventy-five thousand for the Library.

Praznik was quick to point out that the funds for expansion for the Library and the Pioneer Club came from the same source (i.e. Lottery funds) as was criticized by Mr. Kolton at the opening of the NDP headquarters when he complained about the Town of Pinawa receiving a grant for the development of their golf course.

Working with the RM, Praznik said that application was made to the federal government to have the airport paved. He said the government has purchased all of the land around the airport. Praznik said that by cooperating with the government and agreeing to station two water bombers at the airport as the situation warrants, they were able to persuade the government to extend the length of the runway from 4000' to 5200' paved.

way the government has distributed money to the various communities and cited the fact that the residents of Pine Falls had to put up a quarter million dollars before they could get a personal care home in their area.

Thibedeau said that teachers who were "non-crucial services", had long ago achieved binding arbitration and indeed have tenure. He feels that doctors and nurses should also have binding arbitration. "That," he said, "is the fairest and sanest way to go."

Thibedeau is interested in having a close dialogue with all three school boards and with the RM and the LGID people.

Thibedeau feels that the elected members of boards in any given area are best able to determine the needs.

He said that he will concern himself with highways when that is required.

The Russian school teacher asked a pupil, "Who were the first human beings?"

"Adam and Eve," the young boy replied.

"What nationality were they?"

"Russian of course."

"Fine, fine," the teacher commented, "and how did you know they were Russians?"

"Easy," said the boy. "They had no roof over their heads, no clothes to wear, and only one apple for the two of them — and they called it Paradise."
